Taft, Vandenberg Fight GOP Revolt Over Party Posts

Insurrection Threatens Over Effort To Prevent Maine Senator From Holding Two Top Positions.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senators Vandenberg and Taft were reported ready today to appeal personally to their colleagues to put down a threatened GOP insurrection over the organization of the 80th congress which convenes Friday.

The Michigan and Ohio senators, each slated for dual roles in the new senate leadership, indicated they would fight a move headed by Senator Reed of Kansas to bar Senator White of Maine from becoming both floor leader and chairman of the new commerce committee.

Senator Butler (R., Neb.) predicted to a reporter that a firm stand by either or both of the leaders would "crumble" any effort to upset the working assignments laid out in advance by White's committee on committees.

The senate Republicans, who go to bat in a party conference of all of their 51 members this afternoon, were not alone, however, in their preoccupation with organization controversies.

House Republicans will meet Thursday to decide a four-way battle for majority floor leadership under the general direction of Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, who is expected to be chosen speaker without party opposition.

Wrapped up in the leadership fight are some of the ambitions of various potential GOP presidential candidates in 1948.

Halleck Holds Edge.

Rep. Halleck, of Indiana, who has the public backing of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, apparently holds an edge over Rep. Clarence Brown of Ohio, generally regarded as backed by the Taft forces, and Reps. Jenkins of Ohio and Dirksen of Illinois.

Southern Democrats, meanwhile, threatened to kick over the traces against the election of Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, who holds a seemingly long lead in the contest for minority floor leader.

Senate Democrats, also meeting Thursday, appear most concerned over whether the new policy committee approved by the last congress should be given any real power or whether direction of party activities should be left entirely in the hands of Senator Barkley of Kentucky as the new minority leader.

RIGHT-WINGERS SEEK CIO RULE

Leaders Engage in Fight To Smash Communist Power In Labor Union.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Right-wing leaders of the CIO are engaged today in a quiet but effective campaign to smash the power of Communist elements in the organization.

CIO President Philip Murray and Secretary-Treasurer James B. Carey are in the forefront of the movement which admittedly may result in "some casualties" —loss of unions and members.

The drive stems from the anti-Communist resolution adopted by the November national convention of the CIO and the revision by that assemblage of rules governing CIO councils.

Critics immediately condemned the convention action as innocuous and meaningless. The resolution said merely that the CIO "resents" and "rejects" Communist influence in its affairs.

Brings Action.

Fellow travellers since have discovered that the convention action is being implemented vigorously. In the past few weeks, these developments have occurred:

The Wisconsin state industrial union council ousted left-wing leaders and elected an entire new slate of anti-Communist officials.

In New Jersey, the state CIO council adopted a resolution even stronger than the national convention statement against Communists. On a roll call vote New Jersey left-wingers received a "terrific shellacking."

The New York state CIO organization ratified the Atlantic City convention action despite heavy Communist infiltration there.

Candidates backed by Carey defeated pro-Communists for leadership of the big CIO United Electrical Workers Union Local in Pittsburgh. Carey once was ousted from a UEW national office because of his fight against left-wingers.

All of these events were described by right-wing CIO leaders as part of a "campaign of purification" which is being conducted according to "orderly, democratic methods" and "not through tactics of suppression."

REDS BELITTLE DAIREN ACTION

MOSCOW — (AP) — A special Pravda dispatch from Dairen today branded as "sensational" reports that an American naval vessel had been given an "ultimatum" to leave the Russian-controlled port on Dec. 21.

The dispatch—First Soviet press comment on the reports—said that "several days ago correspondent (William H.) Newton of the Scripps Howard staff reported in the press that an American vessel, which was in Dairen Dec. 18 to Dec. 20, was compelled to leave port through an ultimatum by Soviet military authorities.

"This report," the dispatch continued, "was presented by Newton in a sensational tone as an 'incident in Dairen'. In connection with this, our correspondent learned from an authoritative source that Newton's report does not present correctly the facts of the visit to Dairen by the American war vessel, and is tendentious.

"Notification of the arrival of this vessel (an LCIL—Landing Craft Infantry Large) was received by the local port authorities after the vessel had appeared Dec. 18," the Pravda dispatch said.

The Pravda dispatch said that after the 48-hour deadline had expired—a time limit which it said the Americans themselves had established—the U. S. consul informed the Soviet representative that the vessel could not leave on the appointed date, because the captain had been detained in the city of Dairen.

"In connection with this representation," the dispatch said, "the ship remained in port several more hours unobstructed."

BUTTER, EGG PRICES VARY

Butter and egg prices varied widely today in Mansfield, with a range of seven cents a pound for butter and 20 cents a dozen for eggs.

Eggs, which chain store grocers said had dropped three cents on the national market, were not affected in some smaller outlets. Prices for the large sized eggs varied as much as 20 cents per dozen at independent dealers.

Some dealers said they were making no cut in egg prices because eggs were scarce at this time of year. Their prices varied between 65 and 79 cents for large eggs.

Some grocers were selling pullet eggs as low as 49 cents a dozen. Medium sized eggs retailed between 53 and 60 cents.

Lowest reported retail butter price in the city was 81 cents a pound. Others up to 87 cents.

Wholesale butter prices varied from 75 cents at Isaly's to 81 cents at Axtell's.

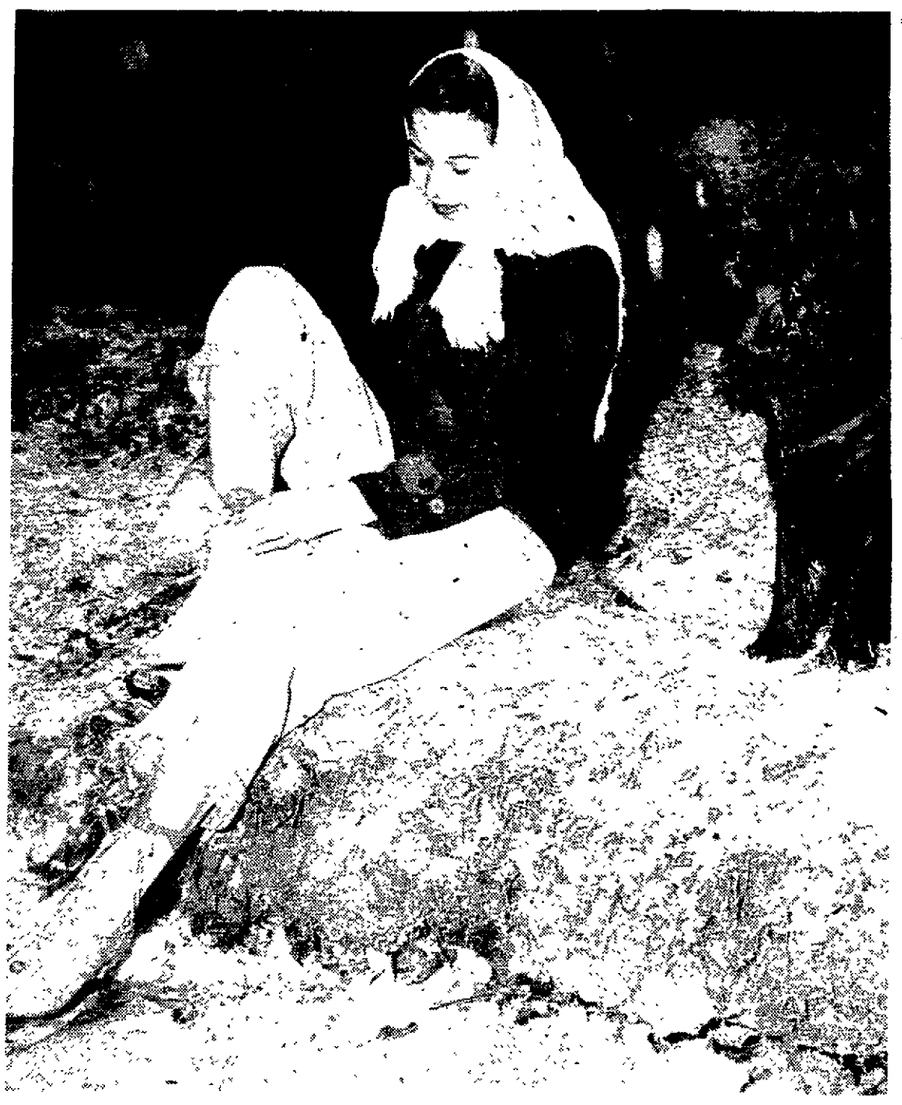
Coal Production Returns to Normal

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Soft coal production has returned to normal with 13,100,000 tons mined for the week ending Dec. 21, the Solid Fuels Administration reported today.

SFA said production for the entire year is expected to be about ten per cent below 1945 because of two strikes in the industry this year. Up to Dec. 21, about 514,607,000 tons of soft coal were produced as compared with 568,627,000 tons in the comparable period of 1945.

PIONEER'S WIDOW DIES

AKRON—(AP)—Mrs. O. C. Barber, widow of the founder of Barberton, O., died yesterday at her country estate in nearby Ghent.



SKATING TIME—As snow fell and Old Man Weather promised near-zero temperatures for the next few days, vacationing school children sharpened their skates, waxed skis, and prepared to make the most of the remainder of their holiday. Typical of the youngsters is Mary Jones, 258 Rae avenue, whom a News-Journal cameraman caught getting all set to try some "figure eights" at North Lake park. Her dog, "Blackie," his whiskers full of icicles, looks on, impatiently waiting for a romp over the ice himself.—(News-Journal photo)

KNUTSON FIRM ON TAX CUTS

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Despite protests from both Democrats and fellow Republicans, Rep. Knutson (Minn) declared today he had retreated "not one inch" in his drive to cut individual income taxes by 20 per cent "across the board."

Returning to Washington to assume the chairmanship of the potent house ways and means committee, Knutson said he would call the committee together shortly to tackle the job.

"This tax reduction should be done and can be done," the Minnesotan told reporters. "We're living in an unusual age if people don't want their taxes cut."

Moreover, Knutson outlined two other major considerations for committee attention:

1. A searching investigation of administration foreign trade and tariff policies by the new, Republican dominated congress.

2. Liberalization of the Social Security laws. Knutson said some 20,000,000 workers now were denied coverage, including self-employed, farmers, domestic workers and professional people.

WALLACE WANTS CHANGE

NEW YORK—(INS)—Henry A. Wallace, former secretary of commerce today maintained that progressives could capture three quarters of the country's vote if people could be educated on liberal ideas.

BYRD'S SHIPS SEEKING BREAK IN ICE BARRIER

WITH ADMIRAL BYRD'S ANTARCTIC EXPEDITION—(INS)—Rear Admiral R. C. Cruzen, operations commander, ordered a reconnaissance flight today to determine if there is an opening in the great Ross icepack.

The massive pack was within sight of the command ship Mount Olympus despite fog-shrouded mists. Giant floating icebergs attested to the nearness of the heart of Antarctica.

Cruzen said the task force would attempt to penetrate the ice pack at 180 degrees meridian, depending on conditions found in the flight by a tiny amphibian from the deck of the icebreaker Northwind.

He pointed out that the barrier could be as wide as 300 miles or as narrow as a few miles.

* * *

A CONFERENCE OF ALL ship commanders in the central group was called for later today while the final fueling of the vessels takes place.

Then Cruzen will transfer his flag to the Northwind for the smash into the pack above the Bay of Whales.

The sailors peering at the massive ice learned at first hand what hazards earlier Antarctic explorers faced.

Only radar kept the ships from running into the pack. The men marvelled that Admiral Byrd in three earlier expeditions had no such scientific aid.

Fire Destroys Ashland Cafe

ASHLAND — Fire at 4:25 a. m. today destroyed June's place, a small eating establishment at the edge of Ashland city limits, on U. S. Route 42. Fire Chief Paul Soles said the blaze started from an oil stove.

The place was operated by Harold Nicodemus, who had closed the shop at 3:30 a. m. The fire was discovered by a truck driver, who called the fire department.

ROOKIE SA ARMY PAYROLL

HAMILTON FIELD, Cal.—(INS)—Federal and local authorities joined today in a manhunt for six gunmen who attempted to rob the Hamilton army air base finance office.

The robbery attempt—apparently directed against Hamilton field's quarter million dollar payroll fund—was thwarted by the heroism of an 18-year-old rookie soldier.

The rookie, Pvt. James M. Hill of Robinson, Ill., was on guard duty in a driving rain before dawn yesterday when the daring attempt was made. Hill will be personally commended by the Hamilton field commandant for his part in the gun battle with the bandits.

Hill broke up the Hamilton field robbery when he heard the tinkle of breaking glass as he was passing the finance office.

The youthful private saw two figures in the shadow of the building and called out a challenge. His reply was gun-fire. Hill returned the fire as the bandits fled.

Eight military policemen responded to his call for aid. Pvt. Henry C. Willis, of Dayton, O., drove a military police jeep full tilt at the gunmen's hiding place and flushed out two of them.

The whole band, however, escaped in the darkness. One of the fleeing figures was seen to stumble and it was thought possible he may have been wounded.

INDUSTRY RAPS CIO PAY CLAIMS

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Industry unleashed a double-barreled attack today against labor's demands for a new round of wage increases and $1,170,000,000 in back-pay court actions.

The National Association of Manufacturers announced it would make public this afternoon a "complete refutation" of CIO contentions that wages can be hiked without raising prices again or without cutting profits below their wartime peaks.

In advance of the NAM action, the United States Chamber of Commerce disclosed in its weekly publication "Business Action" that it will call on congress for a "thoroughgoing study of the entire wage-hour law and its economic effects" because of the mounting total of "portal" pay demands.

SCHOOLS REOPEN

ST. PAUL, Minn. — (UP) — The city's 30,000 public school students today began a trek back to class rooms left vacant since Nov. 25 because of a teachers' strike. The schools reopened today, one week before the end of the normal Christmas holiday recess, after the teachers' joint council voted to suspend the strike.

TEMPERATURE SKIDS SHARPLY IN MANSIFELD

Duluth's 20 Below Forewarns of Near Zero For City Tuesday Morning.

Light snow flurries fell over Mansfield today as a cold wave gripped much of the nation. A frigid greeting to the new year was forecast officially.

A forecast of colder weather brought promise that the city might awake Tuesday to the coldest temperatures of the season with the low readings near zero.

The weather bureau said temperatures would remain below normal most of this week.

Central and eastern portions of the nation were gripped by a cold wave which sent thermometers down to as low as 20 below zero in Duluth.

From a high of 35 at Hayesville yesterday afternoon, the mercury edged downward throughout the night to reach a low of 11 above at 8 a. m. today.

* * *

Small Rise Expected.

By noon, it had climbed only two degrees, and the weatherman didn't see much prospect of temperatures rising more than a few degrees later today.

"There's a lot of weather around," the forecasters said. "It's settling down pretty well all over the country and behind it is a lot of the same air—with temperatures in parts of Canada as low as 35 to 40 below zero."

Although Chicago yesterday had a snowfall of four inches, and even more snow covered sections of the plains states, little snow was seen for this area.

* * *

Cold and Fair.

The forecast for tomorrow was continued cold and fair, with clear skies in prospect for the Mansfield area.

The state department of highways reported roads slippery in spots and traffic, generally, was slowed by snow flurries.

The weather bureau said the storm area originated in Siberia, moving down the north Alaska route, the Yukon valley and due south through the Dakotas to Texas.

In Minneapolis it was 14 below zero today, and in Bismarck, N.D., 12 below. Oklahoma City, Okla., was colder than Mansfield, with a reading of 10 above.

Ground Shakes, But Not Due To Earthquake

CLEVELAND — (INS) — The mystery of earth tremors which kept employes and officials of several plants in Cleveland in a dither the past two weeks was solved today.

A spokesman explained that a piece of heavy machinery in one of the plants was out of balance, causing the vibrations which had shaken buildings, equipment and even streets.

Prior to the explanation, officials were fearful that a mass of quicksand, which underlies the area, was shifting.

The vibrations ceased when the offending machine was taken out of operation.

Woman, Aged 30, Is Grandmother

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—Mrs. Claude Wilbur Norris was a grandmother today at the age of 30.

Her 16-year-old daughter, Mrs. Armon D. Hartlieb, gave birth to a 6-pound 13-ounce child yesterday. The baby, a girl, was named Donna Marie. Mrs. Norris was married at 13.

26,000 Yule Greetings Put In Nixie Pile

Mansfielders who are wondering why some of the Christmas cards and letters they sent or expected to receive were not delivered may find their answer in the 26,000 "nixies" that accumulated in the post office between Dec. 12 to 24.

"With some 939,000 pieces of mail handled during the Christmas rush, I believe that 26,000 nixies was low in comparison with other years," Acting Postmaster Curtis L. Ford said today. "Nixies" is the postal nickname for improperly addressed pieces of mail.

About two-thirds of the total nixies contained third class postage (one and a half cent stamps) are not entitled to directory service and forwarding or return to sender. After being searched to ascertain that no valuables are contained, the third class mail is destroyed.

The first class (three-cent postage) nixies are forwarded or returned to the sender when possible. If this fails, the mail will go to the dead letter office, searched for valuables and destroyed. Valuables are registered with the post office department and retained to await claimants.

TERROR REIGN CHARGE MADE AGAINST REDS

Special House Group Directs Sharp Criticism at Russia.

WASHINGTON— (AP)—Charges of economic enslavement, political terrorism, religious repression, broken promises and ambitions for military power were leveled against Russia today by the special house committee on postwar economic policy.

The committee report—the sharpest official criticism of Russia on Capitol hill since the Soviet union went to war with Germany—demanded that the United States assert "positive leadership" in European economic affairs.

Simultaneously it asserted that if Russia actually is found to be using German war plants to rearm, the western Allies should denounce the entire Potsdam big three agreement and demand that the Soviets "evacuate Germany completely."

First reaction to the committee's document came in the form of a protest against "headline hunters" by Rep. Sol Bloom (D-NY), retiring chairman of the house foreign affairs committee.

Bloom told reporters the committee should have submitted its evidence, "if it has any," to the state and war departments for investigation. He continued the report would do "far more harm than good" in current diplomatic negotiations.

The state department declined any immediate comment.

The unanimous committee report offered a number of specific recommendations, among them:

1. A review of the financial aspects of American occupation policy in "order to substitute productive and self-supporting economies in ex-enemy countries for the present method of supporting them with American money while they, in turn, are being drained by Russia and France."

2. Loans to American occupation authorities through the export-import bank to start the flow of raw materials necessary for industrial production.

The committee asserted the "most serious of all violations of the Potsdam agreement is the alleged rearming of Russia by German plants in the Russian-controlled zones, including the rocket-making plants and testing grounds at Peenemunde, which were to have been scrapped."

POLICE CAPTURE THREE BIKE THEFT SUSPECTS

The alertness of Police Officer Arthur J. Conrady was credited today with apprehension of three youths accused of operating a bicycle theft ring. Two other youths were sought.

Conrady, cruising along the Ashland road Sunday afternoon, spotted a motor bike minus a license plate.

Whirling his cruiser about, Conrady pursued the bike rider as he fled west astride the chugging vehicle on East Third street. He captured the youth near the Pennsylvania railroad tracks.

Under questioning by Conrady and Detective Lee Remy, the youth first said he had borrowed the motor bike from another youth.

When taken to the home of the youth he named, the boy changed his story and admitted having stolen the motor bike after the second youth insisted he had borrowed it from a third boy who claimed to have found the vehicle in a woods while hunting.

Police expressed belief all three youths had operated a theft ring, dismantling stolen vehicles and reassembling them in an effort to disguise identities.

The motor bike recovered by Conrady was identified by Eugene Hammond of 312 West Third street. Parts of other stolen bicycles were found on it.

Police also recovered another bicycle believed stolen Saturday evening from in front of the Ideal bakery. The theft was reported by Forest Harmon, 112 Cleveland avenue.

COUNCIL SET TO SPEED WORK ON CLEAR FORK

Special Meet Called Tonight To Vote Funds Under An Emergency Measure.

City council is scheduled to meet in special session tonight to get faster action on the Clear Fork lake project.

Council specifically will attempt to pass a $74,000 appropriation bill for clearing the lake land as an emergency measure. It was passed last week, but through an oversight it wasn't tagged "emergency" so it couldn't go into effect until Jan. 24.

A council bill passed as an ordinary measure doesn't become effective for 30 days. In this case money for financing the land clearing wouldn't have been available until late next month.

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn said today that the contracting firm submitting the low bid wanted to get started while the ground is still frozen and only by making the legislation an emergency measure can the money become available immediately.

Should the measure be enacted at tonight's meeting, the city board of control could officially award the contract, tomorrow, Vaughn said.

The low bidding contractors were John Richardson and M. P. Teter, partners, of Lexington who submitted a bid of $73,800 on the land clearing project.

200 HERE FEEL OPA RENT HIKE

Home owners converting their residences into multiple dwelling units for rental may now charge $1 more per month for every $1,000 spent in construction.

The increase in rent ceilings was made by OPA in accordance with the upward swing in construction costs, the agency said. It raises the maximum permissible increase to $4 from the former $3.

S. B. Hout, examiner at the local area rent control office, said today that approximately 200 city residences have been converted during the past year and a half. He said the majority were larger and older houses which were changed into two-family dwellings. Houses, converted into three-family dwellings, ran a close second. Only a few dwellings were made over into four-family units, he said.

Hout explained the ceiling boost thus: If a former one-family residence is converted into a multiple dwelling unit, the basic rent will be set on a comparable scale with other rental units in the neighborhood.

Should the construction cost for each unit be $1,000, and the comparable rent set at $40 per month, the rent allowed is $44. For each additional $1,000 spent on construction of each unit, an additional $4 per month may be charged.

COMPOSER BURIED IN HONOR COURT

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Carrie Jacobs Bond, whose "I Love You Truly" is enshrined in the wedding day memories of countless couples, will become the second person to be enshrined in Forest Lawn Memorial Park's Court of Honor.

The 84-year-old lyricist and composer—who also wrote "The End of a Perfect Day," "Just Awearyin' for You" and some 175 other songs—died late Saturday following a heart attack.

Forest Lawn announced yesterday that she had been elected an immortal, and that after private funeral services Jan. 11, she will be entombed beneath the famed "Last Supper" window.

Damage $200,000 In Marietta Fire

MARIETTA — (INS) — Damage was estimated at $200,000 today from a Sunday fire that destroyed one building and threatened Marietta's entire downtown district.

Marietta firemen were aided by Belpre and Williamstown, W. Va., units before gaining control of the blaze, which destroyed the three-story Gruber department store building.

Pegler — Fair Enough

NEW YORK—Max Kase, the sports editor of the New York Journal-American, has opened a little contest in which the clientele are invited to argue the proposition that we have a journalistic duty to publish the point-spread odds established by the professional gamblers, on various games, in season. The question came into controversy early in the case of the attempt to fix a big professional football game at the Polo grounds. Lew Burton, of the sport side, said these odds were news, as important as other news. I say that, by publishing them, we aid and abet the gamblers in an illegal operation. These quotations are published not only in New York but in other cities and the habit of presenting them just grew, along with the growth of the traffic.

The morality of gambling, by itself, is not an issue here. That question has been decided by the people through their legislature under the Republican, not Democratic, form of government which is guaranteed to our states by our national constitution. Through this means, not only New York, but, I rashly venture to say, all other states, with the possible exception of Nevada, have decided that gambling is illegal, saving certain whims and vagaries.

Such is the winnowed wisdom of the people who, in many other respects, recognizing the danger to, themselves of indulgence in pleasant follies, have authorized the cops to restrain them. Inasmuch as illegal activity is immoral, tending to defy and discredit government, the moral issue is thus disposed of.

* * *

For a more garish illustration, let us assume, unthinkably, I hope, that there are in our midst some secret houses of prostitution, and that the proprietors, with some justice, believe some members of our good society would take it as a public service on our part to keep the public apprised of certain commercial data. Our own policy in the press has been severely otherwise. The vitality of this ancient trade might tempt a reckless debater to put us down as censorious, but here again we have only to look to the law for guidance and ease of conscience.

This and gambling are equally illicit and the legislative process has spared us problems of decision, if only we would avail ourselves of the convenience instead of looking for trouble. It is a comfort not to have to decide, for ourselves, not to quote fluctuations in the price of having an enemy knocked off. We just know, somehow, without having to phone our lawyers.

So the issue is plain and the correct decision obvious.

* * *

A few years before the war, I made a study of lotteries, in the course of which I gathered an enormous mess of unimportant information on the British football pools. These roughly paralleled our new craze, although in detail there were differences. They were legal and the only revenue they paid to the British government, which certainly needed money, came in the form of increased postal receipts and personal income taxes on the operators. They made their own odds, paid as much as they liked and came to be regarded almost as a public utility, because the English, underneath it all, have a streak of Chinee and will bet madly in terms of pennies or shillings. So big the volume was that it seemed that if it were killed they would have serious unemployment of laid-off post-office help and the clerks and bookkeepers in the home offices of the pools.

Some Britons who thought they should be taxed were talked down by others who held that this was a dirty business and that the tax-money would be dirty money which the government should take no part of. The government already was taking part of it in the form of personal income taxes, but that fell in another department.

I doubt that it would be feasible to legalize and tax the racket here. Take it out of the illicit zone and our operators would feel so ill-at-ease within the law, so out of place in respectable company, that they would chuck it and find something else illegal.

Othman — On Anything

WASHINGTON—(CP)—I am in bed with a dribbly nose, pink eyes and an emery-cloth throat, victim of an ultra-modern Christmas gift.

There it was under the tree, even as I had hoped, fluffy and pink and bound in satin, an electric blanket de luxe plucked straight out of the atomic age. Boy! It seemed like the company never would go home, but I kept eyeing my blanket and the people finally took the hint.

I had wired my bed for heat. The cables from socket to blanket to control tower and back again made the floor look like a sound stage during production of a technicolor epic. I pointed out to the lady who complained that if John Crawford managed not to stumble across the electrical conduits, surely she could. Then I put on my pajamas.

The box on the night table was glowing softly. The directions said set the dial to the most comfortable temperature and my magnificent blanket would stay that way night long. Here was a problem I'd never contemplated before. What was the most comfortable temperature in bed? I took a chance on 82 degrees Fahrenheit and dived under. What luxury! What comfort!

A gentle warmth permeated my weary bones and soon I was sound asleep, only to wake about 30 minutes later soaked in sweat. I turned back the blanket. The light glowed brighter, as the little men inside the box pumped more heat through the coils. I fixed them. I turned down the temperature to 70 degrees, got a drink of water, and tried again.

* * *

THIS SEEMED to make the fellows in the control unit sore. I could hear 'em muttering. They'd go click, click, click, clickety-click. They'd be quiet for a while and softly they'd ring a gong, which went, "bong." Then they'd start clickety-clicking again.

Bong. Click. Bong-bong-bong. Click. Click. Silence. Bong. Click. I was wide awake now. The sheets were damp and felt cool. I reached out and turned up the heat a little. The little men made two clicks and one bong; then they sat down quietly on their handkerchiefs.

I waited nearly 40 minutes, but not one more sound did they make. I shut my eyes and was about to go to sleep again, when they woke up and started going bong-bong-bong. I got another glass of water. The lady in the other bed said why didn't I go to sleep? "Bong," the little men replied.

Dawn was not far away and here I was involved in an endurance contest with these midget engineers. I began to experiment. Every time I'd move my foot or poke my arm out of the covers, they'd either go click, or bong. The clicks seemed to indicate that the current was being turned down; the bongs that it was being turned up. I could not win.

I pulled the main plug. That stopped the little men. I went to sleep, but woke soon thereafter feeling goosepimply. Hours later the lady who'd presented me the blanket in the first place wondered how I slept. "Achoo," I said.

So ends my sorry tale of anarchy in the atomic era. My cold is getting no better in a hurry, though I must report in justice to the blanket maker that the fault wasn't his. I tightened a loose screw later and that seemed to quiet the little men for good. If I ever get well again (a possibility which seems unlikely at the moment), I believe electronics and I will make good bedfellows.

HANDLEY SEES NEED FOR 1,000 EXTRA WORKERS

Predicts Upturn in Demand Within Next 3 Months.

Approximately 1,000 additional workers will be required by 30 Mansfield industries within three months, C. W. Handley, manager of the Mansfield office of the Ohio State Employment service, estimated today.

With emploment in 28 firms here climbing four per cent from the September figure, more than 14,000 men and women now are employed in industry in the city, he said.

Separations per 100 workers in the city were 5.9, as compared with 5.7 for the entire state. Rate of hirings in the city was 9.3, while the state-wide figure was only 6.7.

Handley said the seasonal decline in construction activity in the city was not expected to provide any appreciable surplus of labor. Many of those being laid off are from other areas and are returning to their homes, he said.

Beginning wages during the period covered in his report ranged from 70 to 91 cents per hour for unskilled men engaged in manufacturing, and 60 to 91 cents per hour for unskilled women.

Wholesalers and retailers paid beginning wages of 64 to 81 cents per hour to men, and 50 to 57 cents to women.

GANG'S ARREST SEEN AS END OF 'ATTACK WAVE'

Police Chief Meade K. Bates and County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz said today they consider the Dec. 21 arrest of two men and three teen-age youths as the solution of the recent wave of attacks on women.

Five Mansfield women were accosted by members of the gang in four separate incidents dating as far back as Sept. 7.

One of the men, Robert Briggs, 28, of 21 Lewis avenue, has already pleaded guilty to a charge of armed robbery and has been held to the county grand jury under $3,000 bond.

Tomorrow his brother, Roy, 27, of 567 Lily street, will be given a preliminary hearing in municipal court on a charge of rape. He has already pleaded guilty to a charge of armed robbery.

Another preliminary hearing on a charge of assault with intent to rape, against Charles W. Williams, 18, of 567 Lily street, will be held in municipal court Friday.

Still pending in juvenile court are cases against two 16-year-old boys who pleaded guilty to participation in the gang's activities. Link Briggs, brother of two of the others, is charged with robbery, and Robert L. Andrews, rear of 161 West Sixth street, is accused of rape.

Meanwhile, in common pleas court this morning John C. Laughlin, under indictment for rape with consent of a 13-year-old girl last Aug. 27, was placed on probation for five years by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch. Laughlin's attorney, John L. Catlett, had pleaded him guilty.

Anti-freeze that boiled over and ignited around the engine of car owned by C. W. Graham in front of 31 North Walnut shortly after 10 a. m. Sunday resulted in another alarm.

ALL-AMERICAN 'PETE' HENRY BOOSTS CAMPAIGN FOR NEW FRIENDLY HOUSE

By MARGUERITE MILLER

"The Friendly House is the best investment Mansfielders can make and it will pay the best dividends!"

That's the all-out endorsement of the current building campaign given today by Mansfield's all-time All-American football player, Wilbur "Pete" Henry.

The man whose gridiron talent has been recorded in the annals of football history left today for Washington and Jefferson university after a short visit with his mother, Mrs. Bertha Henry, 14 North Adams street. Henry is rounding out his 11th year as director of the university's athletics.

* * *

"THERE WAS NO FRIENDLY House when I was a boy, but I saw what could be and what was done with youngsters when I came back from college in 1919 and watched Stewart Knarr at work," Henry recalled.

Knarr, brother of City Councilman Clifford G. Knarr, was one of the first directors of the Friendly House. He now directs the activities of the Valentine Boys' club in Chicago.

"I'm glad to see that the manufacturers in Mansfield have taken an interest in the Friendly House," the famous tackle continued. "It will make Mansfield a better place in which to live by giving the young fellows a start on the right track. Any such cause as this helps the young boy find himself and bridge out his background to the best advantage."

Henry, who calls young peoples' activities his hobby, is an active booster for settlement projects.

* * *

"WE HAVE LOTS OF BOYS come to the university who have trouble finding themselves until their junior year. These are boys who, for the most part, never attended a settlement house. Then, on the other hand, we have boys who were given the advantage of early athletic and social training. They always seem to make an earlier adjustment and consequent advancement.

"I'm only sorry that I can't stay in Mansfield throughout the campaign. I'm sure it will be a success and I will try to follow it through the paper. To my way of thinking it's one of the best post-war projects that the city has undertaken."

The city's native son was born on a farm north of the reformatory, attended Newman elementary school and was graduated from the high school, then at the present John Simpson junior high site.

MATRICULATION AT WASH-ington and Jefferson university in the fall of 1915 paved the way for his recognition as an All-American in 1919. Since then he has been consecutively chosen on the all-time stellar squad by such football immortals as Walter Camp, "Pop" Warner and Knute Rockne. His most recent honor on the all-time eleven came last September when he and 10 team mates were guests of the Chicago Herald-Examiner for a Chicago Bears' contest.

The September honor came as a result of Henry being named by 1,000 sports writers and commentators who picked his name with those of Red Grange and Bronko Nagurski.

Today, the genial "Pete" Henry, a few pounds heavier than the 190-pound tackle who "left quite a hole in the line every time he hit," is making sure that "the young fellows have the right outlet for their energies."

300 Hear Concert By City's Junior Church Choral Groups

Three hundred persons heard the Mansfield Junior Choir group present a program of Christmas anthems and songs at the St. John's Evangelical church yesterday afternoon.

Seven special selections had been arranged by the different choir directors. Six choirs from five Mansfield churches participated.

The program opened with the prelude, "Christmas Pastorale," by Harker, played by Miss Louise Krause, guest organist. The junior choir of the First Christian church, led by Mrs. D. H. Hughes with Mrs. H. H. Clingan at the organ, sang, "The Good Shepherd," by Barri, and "Christmas Lullaby," by Rodgers.

For the second group of selections, Mrs. Charles Anglin directed the junior choir from the First Presbyterian church with Miss Mabel Zehner at the organ. Their numbers were "Song of Peace," by Sibelius, and "Come Maria Elizabette," a Tyrolean arrangement by Dickinson.

The St. Luke's Lutheran junior choir sang the third group of songs, "O Nightingale Awake," by Dickinson, and "Lo, My Savior is Divine," by Haydn. Miss Florence MacDonald led this group and Mrs. Fred H. Cahall played the organ.

John C. Klinger directed the St. John's choir which sang, "When Christ was Born", by Forman and "What Means Those Holy Voices," by Adams. Mrs. Helen H. Heston was at the organ.

Cantata Music Presented.

Songs by the choir of the Mayflower Congregational church made up the fifth group led by Miss Ruth Lindbeck. The choirs two numbers, "The Living Song," and "Holy Night", were both from Ira B. Wilson's cantata, "Music of Christmas." Miss Norma Jean Hunt was the organist.

The young people's choir from the First Christian church presented "The Praise Carol," and "The New Moon at Christmas," both traditional, with Mrs. Bruce Rogers as director and Mrs. Clingan again at the organ.

The final number was sung by the massed choirs under the direction of Miss Janet Baughman, elementary school music supervisor. The selections were "Angel Voices Ever Singing," a French carol arranged by Treharne and "Carol of the Sheep Bells," by Kountz. Miss Krause played the organ for these two numbers and gave as a postlude, Harker's "March of the Magi."

PRICE BOOSTS IN '46 BIGGEST SINCE 1ST WAR

Survey Seen as Prelude To 1947 Wage Disputes.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — A new government price survey—showing an 18 per cent rise in living costs for 1946—was thrust today into the wage-profit debate raging as a prelude to 1947 wage disputes.

The report was released by the bureau of labor statistics while the National Association of Manufacturers prepared a full-dress reply to a CIO survey claiming business can raise wages 25 per cent without raising prices.

The effect of rising prices on the real income of workers was a major argument in the CIO survey, which was prepared to support demand for wage increases. The BLS report did not touch on business profits, which were given much attention in the CIO analysis.

* * *

Food Leads Advance.

According to BLS, prices of living essentials rose about 18 per cent during 1946 with a 34 per cent jump in food prices leading the advance. The report said rising prices had been a factor in labor unrest.

It noted that factory workers earned an average of $45.45 weekly in July, 1945, compared with $40.58 last February. Wage levels were restored to July, 1945, level by September of 1946, the report said, but meanwhile the prices of living essentials had risen 15 per cent.

BLS said price increases for 1946 were greater than in any year since the first World war and far above the increases of 1943, 1944, and 1945. While consumers prices were rising 18 per cent, wholesale prices were climbing an average of 31 per cent.

* * *

Potential Demand Heavy.

"The general price picture was marked by the continuing heavy potential demand for goods and services and the high level of national income," the report said.

"Industry generally had achieved high production levels after reconversion from war output but there still were bottlenecks due to materials' shortages, labor difficulties and pentup demand for many goods. Important also was the speedy relaxation of many government controls following the end of hostilities."

The report made no forecast on future price trends. It did note that while farm prices in general continued to advance after the November decontrol order, corn and wheat prices declined and some retail food prices dropped.

BOARD VIEWS NEW ROAD SITE

County commissioners and the county engineer viewed the proposed location path for a new State Route 13 around Mansfield's municipal airport today.

The viewing was in preparation for a public hearing scheduled for Jan. 6 at 10 a. m. in the commissioners' office.

Approval of a plan to purchase a strip of land, some three and one-half miles long, to the east of the port is expected at that time.

If approved, the county then would purchase the land and offer it to the state highway department for a right-of-way upon which to construct a modern hard-surfaced highway to replace Route 13 which was abandoned when airport construction began in 1944.

COUNTY TAXPAYERS GET STATEMENTS

ASHLAND—Mailing of the last of more than 15,000 statements for the first half of 1946 real estate taxes has been completed by Karl K. Kick, Ashland county treasurer. Tax books will remain open until Feb. 10 for payment of approximately $400,000 in taxes for the first half of the year.

Large number of issues placed before county voters in November caused a delay in issuing statements until outcome of the votes of levies and bond issues was determined.

The treasurer announced that in 40 of the county's 50 taxing districts, tax rates will be higher, due to new levies and bond issues. Seven will have lower taxes and three remain the same.

BUCKS OPEN DEFENSE OF BIG NINE CAGE TITLE

Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK — (UP) — Writing another annual chapter of athletic endeavor into the record books, they are about ready today to start putting muscles on a little guy named 1947 but the old fellow walking out had more than his share of thrills, chills and heartaches.

With that tottering, atrophied athlete named 1946 went a lot of his favorite sons. Men of the sports world like Jimmy Walker, Little Bill Johnston, Tony Lazzeri, Brig. Gen. John J. Phelan, Jimmy Johnston of the biting wit, Col. E. R. Bradley, Walter Johnson of the blazing fast ball and Damon Runyon of the men who glorified their deeds.

The old guy takes along good company. And he leaves behind him memories of exhilarating battles, heart-stopping action which set the pulses pounding and scenes which sent tears stinging at the eyes of strong men. That parade rambles to me in retrospect like this:

Boxing—Tony Zale, exhausted and bleeding but dead game, firing a knockout punch with a broken hand which sent raging young Rocky Graziano into oblivion. . . . Dead-panned Joe Louis perturbed over the "bad fight" by which Bill Conn turned their "battle of the century" into the flop of the year. . . . And the Bomber's still flashing anger after flattening audacious Tami Mauriello.

Racing — Watching Armed win the Widener at Hialeah on an off day from the Florida training camps. . . . A nerve-shaking flight into Lexington to see its breeding farms. . . . Following Assault to Louisville, Baltimore and New York to witness his triple crown victory. . . . And a hot day at Goshen as Chestertown won the Hambletonian.

Golf—Slim Lloyd Mangrum, the Purple Heart veteran, striding through the thunder and lightning at Cleveland to win the national open from Byron Nelson and Vic Ghezzi. . . . Nelson making England's Dick Burton eat his criticizing words in a special match. . . . Ben Hogan striding through the Goodall field like an automaton. . . . And chunky Smiley Quick capturing the national amateur gallery, only to lose the crown to quiet Ted Bishop.

Baseball—The Cardinals' first playoff in history triumph over the Dodgers. . . . Rudy York's two game-winning series homers. . . . And the mound mastery of cool Harry (The Cat) Brecheen as he hurled the Cardinals to three wins and World Series laurels.

Football—Army-Notre Dame, a vicious scoreless bout. . . . And Navy's heart-stopping bid at Philadelphia which fell three yards short of ending Army's unbeaten string. . . . The scandal-baited New York Giants, going down in fighting defeat before the Chicago Bears.

Tennis — America's now victorious Davis cuppers gaining the challenge round by halting Mexico's swarthy swingers and the blond Swedes. . . . Jack Kramer's long-delayed rise to national honors and Pauline Betz's return to the champion's throne.

Track — Lennert Strand's 4:09 farewell mile. . . . And Leslie Mac Mitchell's rousing comeback sweep of indoor mile honors.

The Big Thrill—It came at the derby. Jockey Andy Loturo touted us onto his mount, an outsider named Dark Jungle. "We'll be third at the far turn and come on to win," he said. Old Fearless played him 20-20-20, which is high finance to a newspaperman. They ran for the roses and there, at the far turn, Dark Jungle was right up in third place.

The tote board lights winked knowingly at us, at 60 to 1, while grasping instincts sent chills skipping up the vertebrae. No, Dark Jungle didn't win, or even finish in the money—but all you horse players know why it rates so high as a personal punch.

COME ON YOU, 1947!

National League Teams Play Before 2,671,696

NEW YORK — (UP) — National football league teams played before a record 2,671,696 spectators in 1946, an official compilation showed today, with the 56 regular-season games drawing 1,950,154 fans, an increase of 35.17 per cent over 1945.

The Chicago Bears were the best drawing card and played before 766,757, far over the previous record of 521,426 set by Green Bay in 1945.

STATE LINEUP SAME, OTHERS MUCH TOUGHER

Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa Are Contenders.

By ED SAINSBURY

CHICAGO — (UP) — The Ohio State Buckeyes, defending Big Nine basketball champions, opened their campaign to recapture the crown with nearly the same lineup which won last year, but virtually every other team in the league has improved.

Thus, the future for the Columbus quintet is not too bright.

Ohio opened its season with a victory—a 39 to 33 decision over Pittsburgh, and then went west for a four game series. The Buckeyes lost every one of the four games. They were beaten twice by Washington, 48 to 44 and 52 to 46, and twice by California, 57 to 47, and 48 to 30.

They return to the midwest this week to open the Big Nine campaign against Minnesota Jan. 4 at Columbus with a record of four losses and only one triumph.

Ohio goes into Big Nine play with a squad of sixteen men, and eleven of those are ex-servicemen, coming back to play their college basketball under a new coach, William Henry Harrison Dye, nominally known as Tippy.

Dye, an all-time Ohio State star, won fame from 1934 through 1936. He played quarterback under "Shut-the-Gates-of-Mercy" Francis Schmidt. The razzle-dazzle coach who directed the Buckeye grid teams of the period, and although even in his prime he weighed only 145 pounds, he is still remembered for his "traffic cop" runs in which he pointed out to his blockers the tackler he wanted knocked down next.

Warren Amling, Ohio State's all-American football player, is the headline attraction on the basketball team too. Standing an even six feet, Amling is a senior who has been at the Columbus school throughout the war, although part of his time was spent as an army student. He plays guard on the Buckeye's starting quint.

Others on the preferred starting lineup are Paul Huston, a 6-foot 3 inch guard and another senior, Jack Underman, a 6-foot 8 inch junior who plays center, and two freshman forwards, Lester Pugh, at 6 feet 4 inches, and James Harris. Harris, although the shortest man on the club at 5 feet 9 inches, is the sharp-shooter of the team.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Three strong title contenders — Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin—will get their severest tests this week as the western conference championship basketball race jumps off.

Hardest job of the week falls to the Wisconsin Badgers, who will open the conference season Wednesday by entertaining Illinois before traveling to Iowa City Saturday to face the Hawkeyes. Unbeaten Iowa not only has the most impressive preliminary record of six straight wins but also boasts the league's best scorer in 5 foot 9 inch Murray Wier who has averaged 17 points per game.

The other Big Nine engagement Saturday sends Northwestern to Michigan.

SATURDAY'S RESULTS
California 48, Ohio State 32.
Washington 72, Minnesota 38.
Michigan 53, Iowa State 27.
Loyola 65, Texas Christian 55.
Michigan State 52, Wayne 25.
Bradley 72, Utah State 53.
Illinois 72, Nebraska 37.

American Cup Rout Complete

MELBOURNE — (AP) — Jack Kramer and Gardner Mulloy completed the rout of Australia's Davis cup defenders today with smashing victories in the two final singles matches, thereby giving the United States a clean sweep of the series and establishing America's supremacy in the post-war tennis world.

Kramer, top-ranking member of the American team, battered the veteran John Bromwich into submission in straight sets, 8-6, 6-3, 6-4, while Mulloy bowled over Dinny Pails 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

In the five matches comprising the challenge round, the Americans lost only two sets. It was the first time since Great Britain blanked the United States in 1935 that the challenge round had been decided by a 5-0 score.

Ohio College Quints Meet Strong Foes

By DON STULL

The Buckeye State's collegiate basketballers get a chance to redeem themselves in the national cage circles this week, but it's a long-shot opportunity at best.

Ohio college quintets will take on 19 out-of-state opponents in the week's 24-game program, but must win all of them to even their season record with outsiders.

Of five successes Buckeye quintets managed to register over the Yuletide, Xavier bagged two in the Mid-West College tournament at Terre Haute, Ind., but lost out in the tourney's finale, 75-58, the undefeated thundering herd of Marshall of West Virginia. Akron thumped Albion of Michigan, 73 to 51, avenging an earlier 54-48 shellacking the Michiganders had plastered on Kent State.

Cincinnati, with a 73-37 triumph over Canada's University of Toronto, and Miami, a 60-57 victory over Arizona, turned in the other triumphs over the outsiders.

ST. LOUIS — (UP) — Two of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals' baseball team won further acclaim today when the sporting news named Eddie Dyer the manager of the year and Stan Musial, slugging first baseman, the player of the year.

Owner Thomas A. Yawkey of the Boston Red Sox was named executive of the year.

Three minor league men won similar honors for their activity in the smaller circuits. They were Earl Mann, president of the Atlanta Crackers in the Southern association, Clay Hopper, manager of the International league's Montreal Royals, and Sibby Sisti, shortstop for Indianapolis in the American association.

New York Komedy Kings Meet Columbus Pros Here Tonight

Mansfield basketball fans are looking forward to tonight's professional clash on the Senior high school court.

Pro basketball has been conspicuous by its absence from the Mansfield sports scene for the last five years and its return tonight will feature two crack road teams—New York Komedy Kings and Columbus Pros.

Richland Beverage and Smokehouse, a pair of unbeaten City A league teams, meet in the preliminary contest at 7:30. Beverage leads the league with four straight victories while Smokehouse has won three in a row.

Tickets for the basketball bargain bill will go on sale at the gate at 7 p. m.

Spearheaded by a pair of former Ohio State athletes—Dante Lavelli and Tom Kincaide—the Columbus outfit will be after its 15th win in 17 games this season. The Komedy Kings hold a 49 to 47 victory over the capital city team while the latter outfit defeated the KK's 51 to 49 last week, in Kenton.

The Columbus quintet has won 287 and lost 62 in its last four years of competition.

Lavelli, great end of the Cleveland Browns, joined the Pros last week. He was the best pass catcher in the All-America Football conference.

Other Columbus Pros are: Glen Golden, Iowa; John "Squint" Phares, West Virginia; Red Foster, Michigan State, and Lawrence "Wheaties" Whalen, Great Lakes.

Billy Copeland, Negro All-American from South Carolina, heads the Komedy Kings' cast. Copeland, Ezra Moore and Leon Jones of the Kings played together on the South Carolina State quint which won the Negro national intercollegiate title in 1944.

"Circus Eddie" Hamman will add a touch of comedy to tonight's contest with his "Gags and Giggles" show prior to the feature attraction and again at half-time.

Clever Jesse Garrett will referee the pro contest. The little guy is one of the best officials in professional cage circles and is a show unto himself when he proclaims rule infractions.

Need 2 Teams For C League

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP)—Two more teams were needed today to complete the proposed six-club class C baseball league in Ohio and West Virginia.

Representatives from four cities announced at a meeting here yesterday that Charleston, Williamson and Logan, W. Va., and Portsmouth, O., wer eready to play in 1947.

Ray Ryan of Hillsboro, O., who presided, said another meeting would be held at Huntington next Sunday and that the required $1,000 bond must be posted then to assure operation of the league.

Beckley and Huntington, W. Va., have been mentioned as fifth and sixth member prospects.

Play Sugar Bowl Net Finals Today

NEW ORLEANS — (UP) — Jack Tuero, Tulane university freshman who provided most of the mid-winter sports carnival's tennis fireworks yesterday, will meet favored Eddie Moylan of San Francisco, the nation's No. 8 player, for the Sugar bowl singles title today.

Tuero was leading Moylan, 1-0, in the first set when rain forced postponement of their championship match yesterday.

Ernie Sutter and Frank Guernsey will play the winner of the Moylan-Harry Likas vs. Tuero-Earl Bartlett semi-final match for the doubles title.

Horses For Conn

PITTSBURGH — (INS) — Billy Conn is going into the race horse business. The former contender for the world's heavyweight boxing crown today disclosed he is buying into the Shamrock stables with Art Rooney, president of the Pittsburgh Steelers pro football club.

Couple of Guys Named Charlie Are Big Guns

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK — (AP) — A couple of guys named Charlie, Trippi and Justice, should furnish most of the individual fireworks in the major New Year's Day Bowl games off the season-long statistics from the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Trippi, the All-America from Georgia, gained 1366 yards running and passing for the unbeaten Bulldogs who bump up against North Carolina in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans. He had the best total offense of any major Bowl participant and also intercepted six passes for 107 yards.

Herman Wedemeyer of St. Mary's who faces Georgia Tech in the Oil Bowl at Houston, Texas, wasn't too far behind Trippi in the individual yard gaining chores with Justice taking third place. Justice led in kickoff returns among the Bowlers and Wedemeyer had the best record on punt returns, 397 in 26 runs.

Justice depended on rushing for most of his gains, picking up 943 of his 1213 yards by churning through the line an average of 7.20 yards per push. Trippi divided his work more evenly, picking up 744 yards along the ground and 622 through the air.

Oddly enough, the Bowl games that usually are loaded with the best forward passers in the nation, will show only two of the top 20 in season rankings. John Rauch of Georgia had the best mark with 48 completions and Y. A. Tittle of the Louisiana State team that faces Arkansas in the Dallas Cotton Bowl was next, making connections with 45 tosses

Although he wasn't in the top 20, Ernie Case of UCLA, Illinois' foe in the Pasadena Rose Bowl, hit his receivers with 42 passes good for a total of 868 yards. Case has the fifth best offensive record among the top Bowl stars, gaining 907 yards in all.

TONY ZALE NAMED 'FIGHTER OF YEAR'

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK —(UP)— The Ring magazine today named middleweight champion Tony Zale "Fighter of the Year"—outstanding performer during a year in which world-wide boxing enjoyed unprecedented prosperity but suffered the worst let-down in talent quality in a decade.

Zale already had been awarded the Edward J. Neil plaque by the New York boxing writers association for his outstanding contributions to the sport during 1946.

The two awards—from the magazine and from the writers—were made to the 32-year-old exsailor from Gary, Ind., because of his magnificent victory over Rocky Graziano in their thrilling title fight at Yankee stadium last Sept. 27. Zale, thought apparently hopelessly beaten, knocked out young Graziano in the sixth round.

Zale's selection as fighter of the year was released today in a copyrighted article by Editor Nat Fleischer in the February issue of the Ring magazine. The article accompanied the Ring's annual rating of the boxers of the world.

A feature of the rating was the designation of Billy Conn as the No. 2 heavyweight contender despite his poor showing in the historic Joe Louis-Conn fiasco last June. Conn is rated just behind Tami Mauriello, the No. 1 contender.

Explaining Conn's rating, Fleischer wrote: "Billy Conn, though retired, is placed behind Mauriello on his one 'fight' of the year, a contest in which he displayed little beyond fear. The fact that he kept on his feet against Joe Louis for nearly eight rounds entitles him to this consideration though he didn't consider the feelings of the fans who had paid $100 for ringside seats to see him fight and not perform a dance.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Billy Conn, the fighter, the man who almost beat Joe Louis for the crown in their first engagement, could whip each and every heavyweight rated in our first 10 contenders. That, plus the fact that he did stay on his feet against Louis for so long a period, no matter through what means, earns him a place below Mauriello."

Mauriello of New York was knocked out by Louis in the first round of their September title fight; but not until after Tami had surprised the champion and the fans by nailing Louis with a right to the whiskers that sent Joe staggering across the ring into the ropes.

The general depreciation of talent quality in all divisions—as many old-timers failed to regain pre-war form, and as no new stars came out of the armed services—was particularly noted in the heavyweight division, Fleischer said.

"Never in the entire history of boxing has that division been so devoid of top talent as at present," he wrote. "There isn't one man in the entire division who is worthy of a contenders post, yet, unless he sees fit to retire, the Brown Bomber will find it necessary to accept these mediocre challengers as his opponents until such time as a new crop of heavyweights comes to light. Joe can hold his title as long as he wants to.

Elmer Ray, Minneapolis Negro, was ranked third among the heavyweight contenders; and he was followed by Bruce Woodcock of England and Joe Walcott, Negro of Camden, N. J.

Fleischer was irritated by the challengers' situation in the light heavyweight division. His magazine rated Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati the No. 1 contender for champion Gus Lesnevich's title. Billy Fox of Philadelphia was rated No. 2 contender, despite his 42 straight knockouts in 42 professional fights. Fox is scheduled to fight Lesnevich for the title at Madison Square Garden, Feb. 28. Fleischer charged that Fox's managers "have been able to buy their way into this title match" with a $50,000 guarantee to Lesnevich.

The ring recognized no world champion in the lightweight division. It accorded equal recognition as top contenders to Bob Montgomery, who is recognized as champ by New York and affiliated states, and to Ike Williams, the national boxing association's champion.

Mike Jacobs of New York and Jack Solomons of London were rated the world's outstanding promoters for 1946.

Fleischer emphasized that every pre-war champion defended his title at least once during the year. He said the pre-war champs put their titles on the line a total of 13 times "since the lights came on again," and rolled up 11 knockouts and one decision. Their only defeat was suffered by Freddie Cochrane who lost the welterweight crown when knocked out by Marty Servo last February.

Bill Veeck Looking For Center Fielder

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Bill Veeck, president of the Cleveland Indians, arrived in Cleveland today tanned, healthy—still looking for a center fielder.

Veeck had gone to his ranch at Tuscon, Ariz., to spend the Christmas holidays with his family after attending the major league meetings in Los Angeles.

Slated for discussion by Cleveland bosses today are remodeling plans for the Cleveland stadium in 1947 and contracts for the Tribe's group of athletes.

U. S. Worker Status Highest In World, Says AFL Official After Tour of Investigation

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert J. Watt, of the American Federation of Labor, is one of the nation's outstanding authorities on international labor matters. He has just returned from an official trip on behalf of the AFL to Britain, Belgium and The Netherlands. This is the first of two exclusive articles comparing the status of the U. S. wage earner with those abroad.)

* * *

By ROBERT J. WATT
(AFL International Representative as Told to INS)

WASHINGTON—By any standard of comparison, the status of the American wage earner is far above that of any other worker in the world.

American wage scales are higher and the element of personal freedom is greater in the United States than in any other nation.

True, rising prices and severe losses in take-home pay have created unrest in this country. Our troubles won't be cured over night. No law that can be enacted is likely to make men good.

But, if we will be patient, the situation ultimately will level out without putting government too far into the field of labor-management relations.

By way of contrast, European wage earners—living in lands ravaged by war and with their economies completely distorted—can look forward to difficult days ahead.

When the American worker thinks of a wage increase, he thinks in terms of telling the boss he ought to have more money and setting forth his reasons.

Rely On Government.

Abroad the trend is to set wages, hours and working conditions by government agencies. The European worker relies to an increasing degree on government.

I have just returned from a trip to Britain and the low countries. The British Dutch and Belgian people as a whole live according to very frugal standards. The British call it "austere"—which doesn't fully describe conditions.

As for France, no one can predict with accuracy what will happen there. The French have had not only a political unheaval, but also a social and economic upheaval which is going to necessitate heroic measures perhaps even more "austere" than in Britain.

The Scandinavian countries, particularly Sweden, have an overall standard of living that is very high and an economy with fewer peaks and valleys than our own. Sweden is a small, compact nation with one language and a cooperative movement that plays a very important part in its economic life.

Norway is doing an excellent job and there need be no fear of complete recovery there in a very short time.

Comparison Difficult.

It is difficult to compare American wage standards with those abroad. The only true comparison is to determine what the wages buy in terms of the necessities of life.

For the traveler, the cost of living in Belgium is higher than either Washington or New York. A modest dinner in Belgian hotels costs three to five dollars a person.

Of course, Belgian workers don't live in hotels. But almost every article of merchandise in their stores is higher in price than in Washington or New York—figured at the legal rate of exchange of 44 Belgian francs to the American dollar.

The over-all salaries of Belgian workers, skilled or unskilled, are considerably lower than in America.

In pre-war Europe the tendency was to try to share more equitably what was available rather than to increase output.

A postwar trend, however, is developing and the European worker is beginning to recognize that only by producing more can the community of workers share more of the good things of life.

Despite our weaknesses in the field of labor relations and our recent troubles in this field, American men and management have surpassed in efficiency, production and distribution men and management of any other country.

More Personal Freedom.

The greater personal freedom prevailing in the United States has had some bearing on our troubles. But we must not forget that the element of personal freedom and individual initiative has been responsible for the progress we have had.

Our economy possesses a flexibility of operation that is absent in practically every other country. In most other nations there has been a pyramiding of social and economic controls in the hands of those appointed or elected for their political ability.

The result has been the throttling of individual freedom and initiative.

With the single exception of the United States, the world trend is to set wages, hours and working conditions by government agencies. Growing out of this trend is a corresponding degree of control over management's right to manage.

In no country where government by decree sets standards for the workers has management been able to maintain its freedom.

The mistake made by a few of our industrialists and politicians—intoxicated with the results of the Nov. 5 elections—is in believing the foolish notion that either of the major parties, management or labor, can be hamstrung without the other.

Our own experience in the war showed that collective bargaining withers quickly when labor relations are placed in the hands of government.

In we don't get off the beam and rush headlong after those who sincerely believe they can cure anything by passing a law, there is no reason to worry about the future in America.

The troubles we now are faced with were years in the making and remedies will not be found in the corner drug store. As yet neither unions nor employers have made a real effort to establish a good foundation for healthy and decent labor-management relations.

American workers and employers have an opportunity to work together for ever higher standards of living and, at the same time, render a distinct service to the people of the nation which both must serve.

BUS SERVICE TO AIRPORT STARTS JAN. 1

Mansfield's newest venture in transportation is the bright yellow, 23-passenger "Airporter" bus which will be put into daily service between the city and the municipal airport by the Yellow Stripe Cab company Jan. 1.

The $12,000 vehicle, delivered to the cab company the day before Christmas, will make seven trips per day at a charge of 25 cents per passenger, W. L. Burghard, jr., owner of the firm, said.

"We found that operation of a taxi and limousine to and from the port in recent months justified operation of a bus on a definite schedule and at low rates. By March we hope to be transporting to and from the airport an average of 6,000 persons per month," Burghard said.

* * *

Seven Trips Daily.

Under provisions of a license from the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, the bus will leave the cab company's new terminal, 79 North Walnut street, at 6:30, 7:30, and 10 o'clock each morning and at 1, 3, 4 and 4:45 each afternoon. Return trips from the airport will leave at 7, 8, and 10:30 a. m. and 2, 3:30, 4:30 and 5:16 p. m.

Taxi service by Yellow Stripe since last July was at $1.25 per passenger and the limousine service, instituted in October, cost each passenger $1.50.

The bus, manufactured by the Flxible company in Loudonville, will be operated by Roy Means and Orenal Brown, regular drivers, and Guy Aumend, relief driver, Burghard said.

BRITAIN CHANGING, CLAIMS GEOGRAPHER

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Great Britain will withdraw from all her present middle east bases and protect her lifelines from mid-Africa, a New Hampshire geoghapher has predicted.

"The future protection of her—and the United States'—vast interests in the Middle East will be undertaken by a new defense-in-depth system," declared Hans W. Weigert of Hancock, N. H., in a prepared address to the Association of American Geographers.

"Britain considers a transfer of her major bases from the eastern Mediterranean to the heart of Africa, with main pillars in Kenya and Nigeria," he declared.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennett Cerf

The late Irvin Cobb told the following story, one that remains popular and in its typically leisurely tempo offers a welcome contrast to the slam-bang, wise-cracking school of humor characterizing radio programs of today.

They were burying the town's leading merchant and the funeral procession passed a cabin where an ancient hillbilly couple resided. The pair in question were engaged that afternoon in the pursuit of their favorite occupation of doing nothing whatever.

The old man was stretched on the earth with his back against the wall of the house facing the road. His wife, in a rickety armchair, was facing in the other direction. Presently she spoke. "What's that I hear a-passin'?" "It's Jim Comb's fune'l just goin' by." "Much of a turn out?" "Biggest I ever done seen in these parts," he answered. "More than twenty hacks and waggins, looks like, and a whole passel of mo'ners on foot."

The old woman fetched a little resigned sigh. "Well," she said. "I certainly wish I was settin' turned 'round the other way. I'd like mightily to see that there fun'el."

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, December 31.

A MOST auspicious time for pausing in all the turmoil, confusion, excitement and high tempo of the New Year's intemperate and hilarious exuberance, as under the convivial abandon is a serious and contemplative mood with deep-seated yearnings for the profounder and lasting things of life and its purpose. This need is emphasized by a general tone of frustration, limitation, depression, demanding a studied analysis of the status quo, its conflicts and subtle antagonisms, although sane consideration may attract sympathetic aid from high places. Shun argument and use finesse.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a slowing down or static situation in which there is much need for serious and logical analysis, a deeply considered and far-searching rationalization of "things as they are." Such sane and sober weighing of the pros and cons of the future, its assets, resources, prospects and probabilities, should be carefully inventoried, as all propitious prospects depend upon the wisdom, sagacity and earnestness of this, in order to attract fundamental support from those in influential positions. Take pains to placate these for most sympathetic and enduring results.

A child born on this day has a deep and earnest moode to its nature, albeit accompanied by inclinations to recklessss, unreasonable and at times crafty ideas and intrigue.

1946'S MAJOR FUND DRIVES NET $2?50,000

The wind-up of 1946 finds two campaigns underway in Mansfield and almost a quarter of a million dollars in campaign coffers from the year's eight major drives.

Most of the funds came from the $97,002 Community Fund solicitation; $65,369 from the Red Cross drive, and the $30,000 donated in the high school stadium fund.

The county figured in only two of the campaigns, the Red Cross drive in which Shelby and several townships and villages turned in $16,105 and the $2,000 contributed to the Cancer drive.

Currently underway is the $60,000 Friendly House effort and the campaign for the $120,000 still outstanding in the $150,000 stadium drive.

* * *

OTHER DRIVES HELD THE past year in Mansfield include: the $4,000 appeal of the Volunteers of America for emergency relief funds for holiday use; $5,959 collected in the annual March of Dimes drive against infantile paralysis; $5,112 given as the city's share in the cancer drive and approximately $5,000 contributed to the Angell Refuge campaign for the care of stray animals.

Heading the drives now in full swing is the Friendly House project, representing the agency's share of the total building cost for a new settlement house.

Yesterday's report on solicitations was $23,704.

The drive is the first of "Operation Tomorrow", a long-range program for civic and social advancement planned by the Richland Foundation, through which Mansfield manufacturers will contribute 70 per cent of the estimated $235,000 building cost. The campaign is headed by Paul Endriss, general chairman, and Dean Dickerson, vice chairman.

* * *

THE STADIUM DRIVE, which is probably the most unusual of the campaigns held in the city this year, seeks $150,000 on a "ticket-for-interest" plan. Persons contributing $50,000 or more to build the proposed 000,000 seats in a south stand in the new stadium will be given two season tickets in their choice of sections. They will also have the choice of buying two adjoining seats.

Although Mansfielders seemed to find a campaign in full swing literally every time they turned around during 1946, every goal but one was reached without great effort. This, in large part, was due to the "screening tests" given campaign promoters by a newly-organized group, the Public Appeals Review board. Organized by Mayor Roy W. Vaughan and large contributors, the board was set up to curb unethical solicitations and philanthropic organizations not up to the standard of the community. It was also drawn up in view of the increased appeals for staging drives. Named chairman of the group was Atty. J. HH. Gongwer.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

Little Joe Otter and Paddy the Beaver were neighbors, but they were not the best of neighbors. They were not even good neighbors. They simply were not neighborly. They had nothing to do with each other. In the first place Paddy and Mrs. Paddy felt that Little Joe Otter had no right to be a neighbor, anyway not a near neighbor. Almost every day he visited their pond to catch fish. He acted as if he had as much right there as they had, and came and went as he pleased.

They felt that that pond was really theirs, as much theirs as was the house they had built in it and lived in. Had they not made that pond? But for them there would have been no pond. By hard work they had built the dam that held the water back to form that pond, so, of course, it was theirs, and they wanted no such neighbor as Little Joe Otter in it.

For one thing, they didn't trust Little Joe, who wasn't little at all. He had been called Little Joe when he was small and the name had stuck to him ever since. Now he was big enough and strong enough and quick enough to be without fear as either of the Beavers, but he was as strong, and quicker in his movements, and without fear. They knew that he was an eater of meat as well as fish, and that were he hungry enough and other food lacking he would not hesitate to try for a Beaver dinner. So while not exactly afraid of him Paddy and Mrs. Paddy were uneasy while he was about. They left the house only to get sticks from their foodpile under the ice, one staying in the house while the other was gone.

As for Little Joe, he didn't pay any attention to his neighbors. The truth is he was rather scornful of them. How folks could be content to stay in one place and do nothing but eat and sleep he couldn't understand at all. But then Little Joe never has known what it means to be tired from hard work, such work as Paddy and Mrs. Paddy had done week after week all through the fall felling trees, trimming them, cutting them into short lengths and swimming with them out to the foodpile they were building in their pond near their house, food enough to last them through the winter no matter how long it might be. After weeks of work such as that even a whole winter is not too long a time for needed rest.

No. Little Joe didn't and couldn't understand such a need. He might tell you that he often works hard to catch enough food, but that isn't real work. It is a form of sport. It is exciting and he enjoys every minute of it. Paddy is a worker and homebody. Little Joe is a fisher and hunter, a sportsman and a rover. They have nothing in common save their love of the water in which they are almost equally at home.

"Those folks do nothing but eat and sleep," said Little Joe scornfully.

"That fellow does nothing but fish and play," said Paddy with equal scorn.

"Where do you suppose he sleeps when he does sleep?" Mrs. Paddy asked.

"I don't know and I don't care so long as he doesn't try to turn us out of our house, and I don't think he will try that," replied Paddy.

Nothing could have been farther from his sleek brown neighbor's thoughts. A little way up the brook was a high bank above open water. From the bottom a tunnel led up into the bank to a snug, warm, dry, bedroom. Little Joe didn't know who had dug it and didn't care. He was in possession of it now and it would suit him perfectly for as long as he should choose to stay. There was good fishing in the brook and in Paddy's pond. When the weather wasn't too cold, and he felt like having fun, there was the slippery slide that he had made when he first arrived down that very bank. Life was fun even in winter. So he continued to be a neighbor of Paddy and Mrs. Beaver, but there was no neighborliness. It is often that way among the people of the Green Forest. They live near together yet have nothing to do with each other.

There was this difference: Paddy and Mrs. Beaver were uneasy all the time, while Little Joe Otter seldom gave so much as a thought to the others.

Record Production Seen for Shelby Industry In 1947

FIRMS REPORT NEAR PRE-WAR OUTPUT IN 1946

Strikes, Shortages Hamper This Year's Rate.

By JOHN GRAY
N-J State Correspondent

SHELBY—Although not quite reaching pre-war production records during 1946 because of strikes and a shortage of materials and manpower, Shelby industries in 1946 had their best year since 1941 with the exception of the Ohio Seamless Tube company, only plant here directly affected by a strike.

Industrial leaders here predicted that all production records would be topped in 1947 for a majority of the plants if materials are available for the critical needed manufactured goods, a survey completed today showed.

ALTHOUGH SHELBY'S LARGest manufacturing plant, Ohio Seamless Tube company, was the only industry here affected directly by a strike last year, all of the firms were hampered by the nation-wide coal and steel strikes which caused shortages of critically needed materials.

One firm, Shelby Salesbook company, whose change over from wartime to peacetime work was done with the least amount of lost production, showed it had passed its pre-war year production records by approximately 25 per cent, company officials revealed.

Production at the Shelby Gum company is continuing to increase as more sugar is available for the bubble gum industries. Chicle and other materials from the Far East have started to flow again since the end of the war. Peak production is not expected until the sugar rationing program is abandoned.

PRODUCTION AT THE SHELby Cycle company is slightly below the pre-war years, company spokesmen disclosed, with more bicycles to be produced this year. Lack of materials continues to hamper the company as well as a labor shortage. Outlook for 1947 looks bright, the officials stated.

Output at the Miller-Shelby Products division is expected to increase next year with the completion of an addition started during 1946.

With materials becoming easier to get, 1947 production at the Shelby Spring Hinge company is expected to pass pre-war years. The firm manufactures builders' hardware for which there is one of the largest demands in the history of the industry.

WITH A SHORTAGE OF PAper throughout the nation, the Shelby Carton Service, Inc., has been hampered in producing cartons and other service materials. Production is expected to be increased during the coming year. An addition may be built to the plant here if labor and materials are available during 1947.

At the Shelby Metal Products company, production during 1946 reached approximately 60 per cent of the amount of goods produced during the pre-war years. Lack of materials and a labor shortage continues to plague the firm which had to close down for a short week-end holiday during the coal strike because of a shortage of coal. The outlook for 1947 looks brighter than at the start of 1946, company officials declared.

SHELBY CONTRACTORS ANticipate another record year of building during 1947 with approximately 100 new homes under construction here during 1946. Approimately one million dollars worth of new construction was authorized here last year through building permits issued through the office of Finance Director Chester P. Monn. Construction for which permits were issued last year totalled the largest valuation ever compiled here in the city's history.

Every available person not pensioned is employed in the city, according to Chester P. Monn, relief director, who said that the amount of money spent for direct relief in the city during 1946 was the smallest recorded in the city's history.

CASH AWARD WON BY LOCAL TRAPPER

Nick Mihalik's Muskrat Pelt Earns Award For Pelt Handling In Sears 18th National Fur Show

Read How You, Too, May Win an Award as High as $1,000.00 This Year!

Proving again that "better pelt handling pays," this local trapper got an extra $5.00 in cash—one of the Daily Awards in Sears 18th National Fur Show—and, besides, a chance to share in the big major awards!

What this trapper did, you too can do—whether or not you sell your furs through Sears Raw Fur Marketing Service. For Sears Fur Show offers, this season, a total of 942 different cash awards, including the First Award of $1,000.00 for the best handled pelt of all

Pays You 3 Ways

First, every award is in addition to the cash Sears get you for your pelts

Second, Sears can be depended on to obtain for you top prices.

Third, even if you don't win an award, careful handling enhances the value of your furs.

This third feature is the real reason for Sears 18th National Raw Fur Show with 942 Cash awards, totaling $7,590.00.

Last season, Trapper Forrest Slabaugh, of Ligonier, Indiana, won the big $1,000.00 First Cash Award on his skillfully handled mink pelt. Just think how handy an extra $1,000.00 cash would be for you, this year!

Get In—It's Easy

Every fur you ship to Sears, during the term of the Fur Show, is automatically considered for awards.

Only the handling of pelts counts; not the kind of fur, not its value.

This season, why not try for some big extra money? Remember, everybody has an equal chance. You have everything to gain—nothing to lose.

When your furs are ready, ship them to Sears, Roebuck and Co., Raw Fur Marketing Service at the nearest of these points: Chicago, Philadelphia, Memphis, Dallas, Kansas City or Seattle. Thousands of trappers have earned awards. YOU CAN, too!

942 Awards—$7,590 Cash

Yes, a total of 942 cash awards for fur shippers—942 opportunities to share in $7,590.00 in cash

MAJOR CASH AWARDS. There are ten major cash awards, ranging from $50.00 to $1,000.00.

SECTIONAL CASH AWARDS: There are sectional awards, too—for complete shipments of five or more pelts—one award of $250.00; eleven of $50.00 each.

DAILY CASH AWARDS: Finally, there are 918 daily cash awards of $5.00 each, for pelts received during the Fur Show.

Russia Balks At Plan of Using Aerial Photos As Atom Safeguard

IDEA PROPOSED BY 12-NATION U. N. COMMITTEE

Program Intended to Prevent Illegal Manufacture of Atomic Weapons.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(U.P.)—A United Nations committee recommended today that UN take aerial pictures of every part of the world where atomic materials could be mined or manufactured.

The 12-nation committee, detailing a program for precenting illegal manufacture of atomic weapons, also called for ground inspection of all suspect areas, and international manage of plants handling atomic materials in the late stages of processing.

Russia balked at the proposal for aerial surveys. Dr. S. P. Alexandrov, Soviet representative on the committee, refused even to discuss merits of the project. He argued that aerial pictures touched "economic and other spheres" more than the problem of dettecing clandestine atomic activities.

The rest of the committee, however, agreed that "aerial surveys are essential."

The report pointed out that periodic photographing of key areas would reveal important mining operations, construction or alteration of plants, and the building of railroads necessary to carry atomic ores.

The committee emphasized the importance of tettecting illegal operations at the mines, because control and inspection would become progressively more difficult as the fissionable materials were processed. Once they are turned into pure nuclear fuel, the committee said, there is no way to prevent it being slipped into atomic weapons "within a few days."

Experts Study Facts.

The committee was composed of technical experts representing the 12 nations on the UN atomic energy commission. They heard weeks of secret testimony from atomic scientists before submitting their recommendations to the atomic commission today. The safeguards would be enforced by an atomic energy authority operating under the UN security council.

When fissionable materials reached a stage of purity that would allow them to be used in weapons, they would be transported only under the direct supervision of agents of the atomic authority. The authority would have its own men manage plants where there is an acute danger that important quantities of atomic materials could be stolen.

Exact use being made of facilities discovered from the air could be determined only by inspection from the ground, the committee said. For this reason, UN agents must have full authority to roam the world, not only to visit factories but to take seismic measurements to detect blasting and measure random materials for telltale radio-activity.

Underground structures and wooded areas also would have to be toured by UN agents, the committee said.

They would analyze ores, weigh materials going into and coming out of each factory, and specify the design of machinery so it could not be diverted quickly to illegal operations.

While uranium and thorium mines would be under constant watch, the committee said, "All other mines would have to be inspected at appropriate intervals to make sure that they did not produce uranium or thorium as by-products."

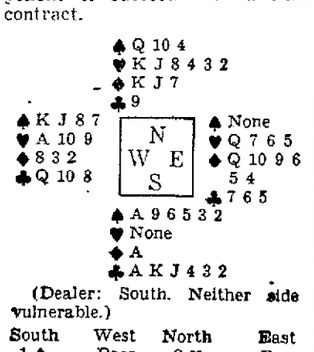
Barclay On Bridge

IN A MATCH point duplicate game, one deal is exactly as important as another. The same number of match points can be scored, or lost, on a one-bid deal as on a grand slam deal. That is far from true in rubber bridge, however, or in a tournament of any kind in which total contract points count instead of match points per deal. In the latter forms of contract, a game hand is more important than several part-score deals, and a slam hand can be worth more than two game hands. Therefore, in these games, a player should be extremely careful not to make a double which may enable his opponent to succeed with a slam contract.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
4 ♣	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
6 ♠	Dbl

West had visions of setting that contract beyond the peradventure of a doubt, by at least a couple of tricks. His heart A seemed a sure winner, two tricks seemed to be in prospect in spades, and another appeared likely in clubs, with the suit rebid at his right. He ought to put it down three tricks, he felt. But he failed to take account of how his double might direct the declarer's play.

First off, his heart A was ruffed. South led the spade 3 and West played low, the 10 winning. A second heart was ruffed and the spade 6 led. Again West played low, and the Q won. Then came the club A, a ruff of the club 2 with the spade 4, the diamond A, the spade A, club K and club J. West ruffed that with his last spade, the K, and had nothing remaining but red cards to lead to the dummy's good kings. They and South's last spade took the final three tricks.

Of course, even as South played, West should have set the contract by playing his K on either of the first two trump rounds, then leading a trump. That slip, on top of his help to declarer with the double, proved fatal.

Lewis Watts Marks Up 32 Years As Empire Steel Employe In City

By AL PREYER

When Lewis Watts, 67, came to Mansfield 32 years ago he went to work for Empire Steel and he's still with that firm.

"I'm prouder of my record as a family man," Watts said. "I've raised five fine children—three boys and two girls. That's my claim to success."

Born in Leesburg, Ind., Watts went to Massillon in 1910.

"I was always engaged in steel work of one sort or another," he said. "I worked in numerous plants in the mid-west.

* * *

"I WAS OFFERED A JOB AT Empire Steel in 1914 and headed this way. As the record shows I've been here ever since. I worked in one of Empire's first plants."

Watts said he was most impressed by the improvement in steel products and in methods of production during his experience in the business which dates back to 1898.

His present job is titled "charger." As large, heavy metal plates come down a roller conveyor Watts lifts them onto another conveyor belt which takes them into a large furnace. It's a heavy job, but Watts handles the plates with ease and skill.

"That fellow Kilroy gets around everywhere," chuckled Watts, pointing to the inscription above the furnace. "Funny thing is he never does any work.

"My hobby is reading," Watts said. "Sports come second with baseball the favorite although I never played the game."

The Watts lives at 573 Garfield place. He is a member of Delano lodge No. 169.

LEWIS WATTS, longest employed at Empire Steel, charges metal plates into the furnace.

Special cachets will be applied to collector's covers which are sent to the above named cities bearing the required postage and accompanied by a request that the letter be sent on the first flight.

Collectors desiring return of their covers must use an agent in Palestine or India or the station manager of Transcontinental and Western Airlines, Inc., at Lydda airport, Lydda, Palestine, or at Santa Cruiz airport, Bombay, India.

Egyptian Queen's Tomb Discovered

CAIRO —(AP)— The discovery of the tomb of a first dynasty Egyptian who ruled the Nile valley some 5,000 years ago was reported yesterday by Dr. Etienne Drioton, director of the Egyptian antiquities department. The tomb was said to be the largest yet discovered of the first dynasty.

Dr. Drioton said a seal on a vase bore the name of Queen Mer Nith but that it had not yet been proved that the queen was buried there. He expressed the belief that the grave had been looted by thieves in the second dynasty.

Second Phase of Air Force Reserve Training Planned

The second phase of the A. A. F. Reserve Training program for light bombardment and troop carrier units to include air crew and ground personnel will be opened in several northern Ohio cities, including Mansfield, within 15 days it was announced today by Col. C. A. Bassett, commander of the Cleveland Army Air Base.

Units to be organized include the 321st Light Bombardment Squadron, the 433rd Troop Carrier Group and the 67th Troop Carrier Squadron.

Other cities to be embraced in the program are Cleveland, Akron and Toledo. The identification of the unit to be organized at Mansfield was not revealed in the announcement.

The program will open active reserve ranks to rated and non-rated former non-pilot A. A. F. officers and ex-enlisted men of the Army Air Corps, Col. Bassett said.

Because of the lack of facilities the planes will be ferried here from the base at Cleveland.

In the first phase of the training program here, approximately 40 pilots have registered for training. Eight days of flying, probably in AT-6s has been scheduled from municipal airport next month, James R. McConnell, one of the operations officers of the Mansfield A. A. F. association, reported.

The schedule calls for flying 2 days each week next month with the beginning flights set for Jan. 4 and 5, McConnell said.

All former A. A. F. officers and enlisted men interested in registering for the training should contact Joseph Lesch at Yuncker Brothers store.

BIDS RECEIVED FOR OSR WORK

Three bids totaling $132,400 for boiler room equipment for the Mansfield reformatory were among the $836,570 worth of bids on equipment for seven state institutions heard Saturday by the State Welfare department.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke reported that the principal item was a 585-horsepower boiler with stoker for the power house. A 10-ton crane to be installed in the engine house and a feed water pipe were also listed for installation.

A bid of $112,000 was entered for the boiler and stoker by J. A. Young of Toledo, while the Elliott company of Jeanette, Pa., bid $9,848 on the pipe and the Euclid Crane and Hoist company of Cleveland entered a bid of $3,470 on the crane.

SOLDIER ADMITS 'URGE TO KILL'

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—(INS)—A 20-year-old army private who said he had an "irresistable urge to kill" was held in jail at Champaign today in connection with the strangulation-slaying of Helen Marie Cler, 19, a clerk.

Pvt. Maurice Garrett, stationed at nearby Chanute Field, told police after 10 hours of questioning, that he selected Miss Cler as his victim merely ebcause "she was close at hand."

Miss Cler's body was found, about 1 a. m. yesterday on the lawn of a rooming house where she lived.

Garrett, who gave his home as Akron, O., said he met the girl in a tavern Saturday night. He bought her drinks, he said, and she allowed him to escort her home.

As they neared her rooming house, Garrett said he choked her into unconsciousness, dragged her into a shadowed area at the side of the building, and criminally attacked her. He then strangled her, he said, and left the body in front of the entrance.

FILIPINO PUPPET BIDS FOR AMNESTY

MANILA —(AP)— General amnesty for Puppet President Jose P. Laurel, his Japanese-occupation cabinet and 5,000 other Filipinos accused of collaboration will be recommended to President Manuel A. Roxas in the near future by the Philippines Justice department. This was learned yesterday on unimpeachable authority.

Only Friday the people's court indefinitely postponed Laurel's treason trial from Jan. 6 and left him free on $25,000 bail. The court, in operation 14 months, has completed only 100 cases. Only one of these was of any importance.

Doctor Fights Ouster Effort

YOUNGSTOWN—(AP)—Dr. E. E. Kirkwood, medical director of Mahoning tuberculosis sanatorium for 21 years, Saturday filed court action asking a declaratory judgment and an injunction to prevent sanatorium trustees from firing him.

The trustees charged Kirkwood had failed to cooperate in a program to win accreditation by the American Medical association. Kirkwood charges "frameup".

Scientist Lists 5 Possible Means of World Destruction

BOSTON — (INS) — Five possible ways in which the world could be destroyed were presented to the American Association for the Advancement of Science today by Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard observatory.

He listed the dangers as:

1. Genius maniac.
2. Dope which kills the desire or ability to reproduce.
3. Boredom.
4. World warfare with super-weapons
5. World-wide super-plague.

Dr. Shapley told the scientists the most potent of all is a "combination of lunacy and war techniques."

"When one of our inevitable super-geniuses of the future discovers some new mankind-annihilating device, and this genius is insane, he will willingly perish as he destroys the world."

The group was startled when Dr. Shapley suggested how they might control such a potential menace.

"It's all too easy," he said. "All you need do is kill off, while young, all primates that show any evidence of promise or genius, or even talent."

To make such "selective infanticide necessary," Dr Shapley recommended a "program of planet-wide education at all levels."

FIND DRUGS SLOW MENTAL ABILITIES

BOSTON —(AP)— Evidence that penicillin and streptomycin decrease mental abilities temporarily was reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science yesterday by Dr David I. Macht, of Sinai hospital, Baltimore.

He described the reactions of white rats that were given large doses of each of these new drugs. The animals ability to find their way through circular mazes was impaired for two or three days. They also became poor at walking tight ropes and climbing vertical ropes.

There was no evidence of permanent mental or nerve damage.

Bucyrus Teachers Secure Pay Boost

BUCYRUS —(AP)— The city school board Saturday voted $30 a month pay increases for all teachers, the increase to extend through March pending possible state action on school salaries.

The Bucyrus board originally offered $350 a year boosts, but they were rejected by teachers who insisted they wanted a new salary schedule instead of a flat raise. The city council also voted $10 a month raises to all city employes, except elected officials. The increases are effective Jan. 1.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

It is being recalled that the home also has a "portal" at which pay actually starts and stops.

There's more talk about abolishing filibusters in the senate—but it may be doubted if civilization has yet advanced that far.

Someone has an idea that Mansfield's traffic tie-ups would be much less frequent if double-parking could be stopped—but no suggestion is offered as to how this can be done.

1947 Forecasts Shun Over-Confidence

WHILE the division of time into years is no more than a man-made device for convenience in recording history and keeping tab on current happenings, approach of a new year is invariably hit upon as a proper time to indulge in retrospect and prediction.

Entry into 1947, in the matter of forecasts, lacks the tone of optimism and confidence that marked the end of the war and the outlook for 1946—which, in many ways, has been a disappointing year.

The spirit of unity and concerted effort, which played such a large part in winning the war, fell off sharply almost immediately after hostilities ceased—not only on the domestic scene but internationally as well.

Conflict within the borders of the United States is little less intense than it was during the 1861-'65 war between the states, except that, in most instances, it does not involve resort to armed force.

There has been rebellion, however, against the orderly processes of government, and minority groups have acted in ways that placed unnecessary burdens on a large majority of the American people.

A new problem has been injected into the troublesome field of labor relations by appearance of Supreme Court sanction of what is called "portal-to-portal" pay for industrial workers, and this is something that will need clarifying before there can be any basis for calculation of what may be in store for 1947 and thereafter in such matters as wages, production costs and prices.

Some forecasters express belief that 1947 will bring a moderate slump, but not the "big depression" that is foreseen for a few years later—probably not until the early 50's.

From the sidelines, however, it would appear that the year scheduled to dawn Wednesday may wind up 365 days later as among the best—or the worst—in American history . . . depending on the quality of leadership by the legislative and administrative agencies of government, the course of union organization procedure, the willingness of industry and business to operate at a reasonable profit, and the determination of all Americans to do a full share in contributing to the general welfare rather than to be chiefly concerned with selfish interests.

One Man's Dangerous Power

RETURN of coal miners to work has not solved the basic issues involved in the controversy. The fact remains that the miners stopped production at the order of one man, that they went back to work at the order of one man, that they can again walk out at the order of one man. This great nation, in effect, is existing on the sufferance of ONE MAN.

It is a misnomer to describe present day coal strikes as strikes against the mine operators. They are strikes against the American people. The last coal strike was aimed straight at every home in America—every job in America—every business in America.

Return of the miners to work has not changed a situation which Judge Goldsborough put effectively into words in his decision, when he said: "If action of this kind could be successful, it could overthrow the government." It could, in short, do what Germany and Japan were unable to do in the greatest war of all time.

Furthermore, as one senator said, the obligation of congress to overhaul labor laws and labor policy has not changed—and it will not change regardless of final decisions of federal courts. The duty of the courts is to say what the law means—the duty of congress is to put into the framework of law the needs and desires of the people. And there can be no question of public sentiment when 400,000 coal miners place their interests above the interests of 140,000,000 people.

Thirteen Million Didn't Care

REVISED election figures show that no more than 35,000,000 persons voted in November, as against 48,000,000 in 1944, which evidences considerable indifference to elections other than in presidential years.

When it is considered that senators, congressmen and governors are among those elected, in addition to many minor officials, it would appear that too many million people are unappreciative of the privileges of self government.

Johns Hopkins university has announced a new method of radio reception, in which the waves are picked up "without use of tubes, electric currents, antenna or condensers." It sounds like magic. But no more so than the first time the voice and the music came out of that first box.

A Chicago observer of trends believes that "bobby-soxers are on the way out"—which seems odd, considering the late hour at which they came in.

Nice thing about a necktie or a handkerchief as a gift—it will probably fit.

TRAVELING LIGHT

New Year Will Bring Enlivening Of Activity In Partisan Politics

By RAYMOND MOLEY

POLITICS has already slipped back into its old-time prominence.

The congressional elections, with the surprising return of Republican strength, marked the first phase of the restoration of the old favorite.

During the war and in the months following, our eyes were turned abroad. It seemed improper, even indecent, to discuss local affairs which were not involved in America's role in the world.

In the channels of news, battles and world politics held supremacy. But in these holidays, Taft and Bricker hold the headlines where Von Runstedt and Patton appeared two years ago.

Despite the fact that there will be no national election in 1947, there will be plenty of political activity. Republicans will hope to extend their gains in city elections. Since the big cities have been the strongholds of the Roosevelt-labor New Deal, many of them are still in Democratic hands. New York City is settled that way for three more years.

But Chicago elects a new mayor this spring, and it looks bad for the Kelly machine. Kelly himself has had enough, and a new Democratic candidate has been selected. But weaknesses in the machine were glaringly apparent in the county elections last fall.

Most cities, large and small, in the North and West have long since returned to the Republican party and have selected non-partisan administrations. The first signs of a Republican revival appeared in many city elections as far back as 1937.

City governments this year will be harassed by financial troubles. Many a mayor will wish he had never sought the job. Because of these financial problems, the cities will get more attention. The costs of necessary public construction will be higher than current revenues will support.

Teachers and other city employes have fallen behind in the great rush for higher wages. Their situation in most places is really precarious. Many cities have grown enormously because of war industry. And city services are under increasing demands.

Housing conditions are deplorable, and hence the problems of health and sanitations are greater. Discontent with the people in office will be reflected in primaries and elections.

The honeymoon of the new Republican majority in congress will be short. Sharp rivalry is already apparent in the scramble for committee positions and patronage. As soon as congress is organized, there will appear basic differences among Republicans on national policies.

It is not going to be easy "to do something about labor." Most members of the two houses want to do something, but they also hope to hold the support of the more conservative labor elements. Republican leadership is counting on the support of most of the AFL and some of the discontented rank-and-file in the CIO.

The perennial tariff issue will emerge. In this the Democrats will have the best chance to split the opposition. Several proposals will be offered to limit or repeal the Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act. Senator Wherry, who will be powerful in the coming session, will probably lead the pro-tariff faction. The present legislation will expire in June, 1948. But a good deal can be done on tariffs before that, if the protectionists prevail.

The Democrats will also have sharp internal political pains. It is evident that the high command in the national committee needs overhauling. Its handling of the congressional campaign was bad.

And wherever one goes among the states, there is complaint that, since the days of Farley, state and local Democratic organizations have deteriorated. In some states, Democratic party organization is all but dead.

All these political problems, however, will be overshadowed by the rivalry among presidential hopefuls. The most acute housing problem in 1947 will be White Housing.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Rudyard Kipling, British author and poet laureate, was born in Bombay, India, on December 30, 1865. "Soldiers Three," "Barracks-Room Ballads," and "Recessional" are among his best-loved works.

Dave Boone Says:

JUST when there seemed a rift in the capital-labor clouds these portal-to-portal pay suits come along. I don't blame a man for trying to get what a court says he is entitled to. But I can't help feeling that those Supreme Court justices must be awfully sore over the number of doors they have to go through on the trip from their apartments to the bench.

* * *

Now that the court has ruled in a single case that workers were entitled to be paid for the time spent in getting from the outer gate to a point on the job where they rolled up their sleeves, suits to recover such pay for the last decade are busting out all over.

* * *

All I know is that the workers who built this country didn't worry about the time they spent changing into their overalls. And if they have been able to drive to the plant in their own motorcars they wouldn't have been concerned about the walk from the gate to the job.

Churchill Opposed Gen. Marshall For Post of Supreme Commander

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It may be a long time before the full inside story of what happened at the historic Big Three conferences is pieced together, but gradually important parts of it are leaking out. Elliott Roosevelt has written one version. Winston Churchill is writing his. Probably Stalin will never record his.

But perhaps the most unbiased accounts are those of U. S.-British interpreters who sat with the Big Three all during their talks, and who faithfully recorded the details in their diaries.

From one such source has been obtained the following authentic story of how General Eisenhower was selected as supreme commander of the English channel invasion.

The decision was made on the last day of the Teheran conference, after Churchill and Stalin had rowed bitterly over the 2nd front. Churchill demanded that it go through the Balkans, Stalin that it cross the English channel. Stalin had won. But at this final meeting, with the detailed invasion plans before them, Stalin was still very suspicious of Churchill. Finally, as the discussion ended, Churchill moved adjournment, when suddenly Stalin, speaking in Russian, said he had one more question. Roosevelt asked what the question was.

"Who big boss?" Stalin asked, suddenly switching from Russian to his very limited English.

In an ill-tempered mood, Churchill stood up and blurted out one word, "COSAIC." He then stalked out of the room. Roosevelt shook hands with Stalin and left. An hour later, word came that Stalin wanted another meeting. Roosevelt summoned Churchill and the three sat down again.

"Who is COSAIC?" Stalin asked.

"COSAIC," Churchill replied, "is the commander of the supreme Allied invasion corps."

"What's his name?" Stalin asked.

"We're going to name him later," Churchill replied.

Churchill Vetoes Marshall.

Stalin then made it quite clear that he didn't trust Churchill, that he believed Churchill would still oppose an invasion across the channel and that unless a commander-in-chief was selected before the Big Three left Teheran, all agreements were off. Roosevelt then agreed to select the supreme commander immediately and recessed the session.

Moving into the next room, Roosevelt summoned Admiral King and Admiral Leahy, asked them who they thought the supreme commander immediately and recessed the session.

Both replied that there was only one choice, General George Marshall. The chief of staff, they said, not only deserved but wanted the job.

"I agree," Roosevelt said, "it should be George. I'll clear it with Churchill right away."

Roosevelt then call on Churchill and told him his candidate was General Marshall.

"I'll take anybody except Marshall," Churchill replied. "If you insist on Marshall, then I'll withdraw all my commitments."

Roosevelt then called on Churchill and told him his candidate was General Marshall.

for an invasion via Italy to the Balkans, and that the British prime minister, who considered himself quite a military strategist, had not relished these rebuffs. But, though Roosevelt argued that Marshall was not anti-British, Churchill remained adamant.

Finally Roosevelt summoned Marshall and told him the result of his conference with Churchill.

Marshall Shows Greatness.

"George," Roosevelt said, "you deserve the job. You can have it if you want it. I'll just announce that you've been appointed and Churchill will never dare deny it."

As transcribed at the time by one of General Marshall's own aides, here is what he replied:

"No, Mr. President," said the U. S. chief of staff. "We're supplying 80 per cent of the materiel for the invasion and 70 per cent of the troops, but it's still got to be an allied command. If Churchill hates the supreme commander, he'll sabotage him. The British are only supposed to send in 14 divisions. If you appoint me, they're liable to hold up all of them at the last minute, just out of spite. I don't want to be even indirectly responsible for anything like that happening. So I suggest that we name Ike Eisenhower, who's got a fine record."

Roosevelt's reply was that some day history would learn of Marshall's selfless greatness.

And that's how Eisenhower became supreme commander of the Western European invasion.

Unique Bureaucrat.

In a city where the average bureaucrat would cut a rival's throat quicker than his own official powers, it is heartening to find one government bigwig who ukases himself out of a job. That is what happened when the Office of War Mobilization was reorganized out of existence.

OWMR boss John R. Steelman not only recommended the move, but helped draft the order terminating his own agency. By this shake-up Steelman reverted to his old post as special assistant to the president.

Before signing the shake-up order, President Truman called Steelman in to iron out one or two minor points.

"John, you amaze me," said the president. "You're the darndest bureaucrat I've ever seen. Do you know what you've done? You've liquidated your own office."

"Well, I hope my loss is the government's profit," replied Steelman.

Senate Faces Clear Issue In Bilbo Case.

WASHINGTON—Senator Bilbo cried out "Yankee interference," "Communists," and so on in his primary election campaign in Mississippi last summer because some people outside the state had some feelings about his re-election and spoke out.

The late Gene Talmadge used the same tactics in Georgia.

Quite a number of people in Mississippi felt about the senator as did many beyond her borders, judging from the election returns. In Georgia a majority of voters cast their ballots against Gene Talmadge, though he won by the gerrymandered county-unit system, the only one left in any of our states.

Now Senator Bilbo, in a desperate attempt to save his senate seat, is resorting to a species of blackmail.

He is letting it be known that he is digging into the relationships of other senators with war contractors. His own record has been thoroughly aired.

This, Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) now says "may produce the most embarrassing debate in the history of the senate."

So what?

Personal "embarrassment" now joins other specious issues in the Bilbo matter. There is either a case against him or there isn't, and the senate is likely to find itself challenged by the public to determine that clearly and act accordingly, without confusing basic issues with all sort of extraneous matters, including a personal fright and fear complex.

The issues are two:

His threats and intimidation of Negro voters in the primary.

The alleged gifts and contributions from war contractors.

Reports of the public hearings by the senate campaign expenditures committee in Mississippi several days ago seemed ample proof of charges that Senator Bilbo had tried to intimidate Negro voters, and were especially convincing to this writer who is familiar with Southern politics and political methods.

This is a basic issue in our democracy, going directly to the right of franchise. The public is entitled to consideration of this issue by the senate, and it hardly seems possible for that body to duck it if it regards itself as a protector of the essential liberties of our people.

Beyond that is the other, and unrelated, war contract issue which will form the basis soon of a report by the war investigating committee following its exhaustive public hearings.

It is doubtful if the public will understand any attempt in the senate to duck that. Now that it has come out that Senator Bilbo is going into the records of other senators, it would seem only fair, and better for the senate, that the Mississippian say whatever "embarrassing" things he has to say, rather than let his intimations go unchallenged.

If there is anything about other senators that is unethical, it should come out. The public is entitled to it. If Senator Bilbo is trying to pull a bluff, then his bluff should be called.

The senate, under the constitution, is the judge of its own members, and this is a trust that the people expect to be kept. It is doubtful that they will be satisfied with any stretching of the "state rights" issue which seems to be the intention of some southerners.

Hannegan at "To Be or Not To Be" Stage.

WASHINGTON — If there is one person out of official Washington who really is enjoying this holiday interlude, it is Robert E. Hannegan, the Democratic national chairman and postmaster general.

Shortly after the Republican landslide in November, Hannegan went to Florida in a state bordering on exhaustion. It was considered certain that he would step out of at least one of his jobs—the party chairmanship. In most of the columns written about Hannegan at that time a requiem note crept in.

But rest and the Florida sun have done wonders for him. Those who have been to see him recently report he is rested and relaxed, and that a coat of tan has made him look younger than his 43 years.

Whether he will resign the chairmanship is still an open question, according to those who have talked with him.

The answer will depend on what his doctors tell him when he returns to Washington around January 15. A great deal will depend on whether it is judged necessary for Hannegan to undergo an operation to relieve the high blood pressure from which he suffers. If he decides to keep the post of chairman, he will have the backing of President Truman.

This would be bad news to Hannegan's critics and enemies. They have assumed that he would retire for reasons of health, probably retaining the postmaster generalship, and thereby make way for a far more conservative regime at Democratic headquarters.

Some in the anti-Hannegan camp have assiduously spread the false report that a coolness has grown up between the president and the chairman of the party.

The other day in New York one of Hannegan's predecessors in his two jobs spoke about the need to get new life into the direction of the Democratic party. James A. Farley, now a successful corporation executive, seemed to be hitting at Hannegan. By implication he was saying that if only a different type of direction had prevailed last fall, the outcome would have been different.

This, it seems to me, raised an extremely interesting question. How important is the part played by the professional politician in determining the outcome of major elections.

Farley's own career is a significant case history that throws some light on this question. Few would dispute Big Jim's right to the title of ablest politician of our time. His far-ranging activity did a great deal to help put Franklin D. Roosevelt in the White House in 1933. From the outset of his career he was a highly efficient and hard working organizer.

But Farley broke with Roosevelt before the 1940 convention. He did not go along with the third term. Nor did he take any part in the effort to elect F. D. R. to a fourth term. Yet the change in generalship seemed to make little or no difference in the outcome.

While Roosevelt's popular majorities were not as large as they were in 1936, he was overwhelmingly re-elected both in '40 and '44. The chairman in '40 was Edward J. Flynn. In '44 it was Hannegan.

One reason that many people would like to see Hannegan out of the chairmanship is because they regard him as standing for the Roosevelt wing of the party. There are, certainly, valid criticisms of the job he did in the last campaign. But if Hannegan does retire, it will be a cause for rejoicing among those who want to restore the Democratic party in the normalcy of Southern conservatism.

Farmer's Diary: "Danger of 'Indifferentism'".

Escuela Agricola Panamericana—the training school for farmers near Tegucigalpa, Honduras—is a project that is "green and growing." Their first commencement exercises have graduated 63 young men from seven countries, who will go back to their own nations to become leaders in modern agriculture.

Looking at the group picture of these boys (average age 22) all in white suits with a palmetto looming behind them—a person is impressed by the fine expanse of forehead that seems to be represented. The first names run, Raul, Juan, Alberto, Jose, Abraham . . . they are an intelligent, fun-loving hope-filled crew, educated to contribute "to that sound foundation of civilization which rests upon farmers working their own lands with their hands, in a way so intelligent and so efficient as to make possible a rising standard of living."

The director of the school, Dr. Wilson Popenoe, gave a short address. "The school has its origin in the mind of a man intimately related to an industry rooted in the abundant soil of Middle America—Samuel Zemurray of United Fruit company. . . . But the spirit and stimulus of a school reside in the student force . . . naturally you must have regarded us as teachers brought to this school to instruct you on the science of agriculture. It probably never occurred to you that you also taught us a great deal. Any contact between two persons brings knowledge to both; and this experience is even more effective and profound when teachers and instructors and pupils are from many countries.

"The most important thing that you have learned is that we all know very little and that we must continue forever learning until we die. You must continue learning always!"

And listen to this, from Julian R. Caceres, ambassador of Honduras: "After three years of technical study, a group of students from Honduras and adjoined nations of Middle America, caressed by the waves of the Caribbean Sea, have won diplomas as agriculturists.

"The roots of civilization lie deep in the intensive cultivation of the soil. The farmers' tools are the best instruments against strife and for the defense of peace and the uplifting of nations. The earth dignifies all who approach it in search of its cosmic gifts . . . the earth blesses the hands of those who make it bring forth the grain, the flowers, the fruits. Symbolically speaking, each furrow opened for the seed is like the opening in the consciousness of the man, the village, the city, the nation itself, a furrow of light leading to the great truth that through the earth, in the earth, and by the earth, Man satisfies his needs and complements and perfects himself.

"In discharge of their mission, the young graduates will begin a crusade against tropical indifferentism. . . ."

(Si, senor — "Indifferentism," every nation's greatest tragedy!)

"Maybe you did wear hand-me-down pants when you were a boy, Pop . . . But you never had to wear your mother's!!"

'Portal-To-Portal' Lawyer Fears 'Overplay'

IN THE TOLEDO BLADE, home-town newspaper of attorney Edward Lamb, there appeared the following editorial on the activities of this lawyer who set off the chain reaction of portal-to-portal pay lawsuits now piling up against U. S. industry:

"Perhaps a bit alarmed at his sensational success, Edward Lamb, the Toledo attorney who successfully prosecuted the Mt. Clemens portal-to-portal pay suit which threatens to bankrupt American industry, is advising other unions to use discretion as they attempt to cash in on his lucrative precedent.

"With the sums sought already running into the hundreds of millions of dollars and heading for the billions as unions vie with one another for the largest slices of this judicial bonanza, Mr. Lamb is afraid that organized labor may overplay its profitable hand. "Over-flamboyance" in filing such suits, he warns, will lead to stiffer congressional action to block the grab. He suggests that unions should refrain from naming specific and stupendous sums.

"Although practical considerations justify this caution, the advice Mr. Lamb is now handing out seems questionable on legal grounds. If his clients are entitled to this money they didn't know they were working for, other workers are clearly entitled to the same. If some companies are to be ruined by overtime payments they didn't know they owed, the law should ruin other companies so as not to play favorites. And if the Supreme Court is going to redistribute wealth by judicial fiat, every worker should have an equal chance to grab his share.

"Apart from the fundamental fairness of distributing this something for nothing equally, the piling up of bigger and better suits for portal-to-portal pay may offer the country its best out from the dilemma the Supreme Court has created. Since practically everybody from Adam on down thought he started work when he started work until the New Deal justices ruled contrariwise, practically everybody should share in this overtime payment for doing nothing.

"But once everybody tries to collect the money due him for the work he didn't do, Congress, if not the Supreme Court, may call a halt before the goose which lays the golden eggs goes into bankruptcy."

All that need be added to the Blade's comment is that the Lamb-inspired lawsuits must bring happiness to the Communists whose Mother-Russia Mr. Lamb praised highly in a book which he published some years ago. Nothing would delight the Communists more than a bankrupting of U. S. industry, which would give them a chance to scream openly for their own brand of totalitarian rule.
